SALUTES 50 YEARS
OF OKLAHOMA

High noon, April 22, 1889! On this date began the celebrated "runs" which opened the state of Oklahoma to white settlement. One of the greatest of all openings was that of the Cherokee Strip, made September 16, 1893. Oklahoma actually came into statehood in 1907 by an act of President Theodore Roosevelt. No equal area upon which the sun shines has, during recorded history, made such rapid progress as has the State of Oklahoma during the first half of the twentieth century. Frontier conditions have gone forever, but the pioneer spirit will never die. This "Sooner Spirit" — one of youth, of daring, of optimism, of belief in one's self and in the future—has made such progress possible.

HISTORY

Oklahoma is after fifty years no longer a "land of the red man." Now people from all over the world live within the boundaries of the state. Oklahomans—laborers, teachers, doctors, lawyers, clergymen, businessmen, scientists, and scholars—all are the descendants of people from every part of the world. Every race, creed, and nationality is represented. The students of this state have a rich heritage to understand and to uphold. In free public schools the students of today learn to love their country and to govern it with wisdom and with brotherhood.

PEOPLE

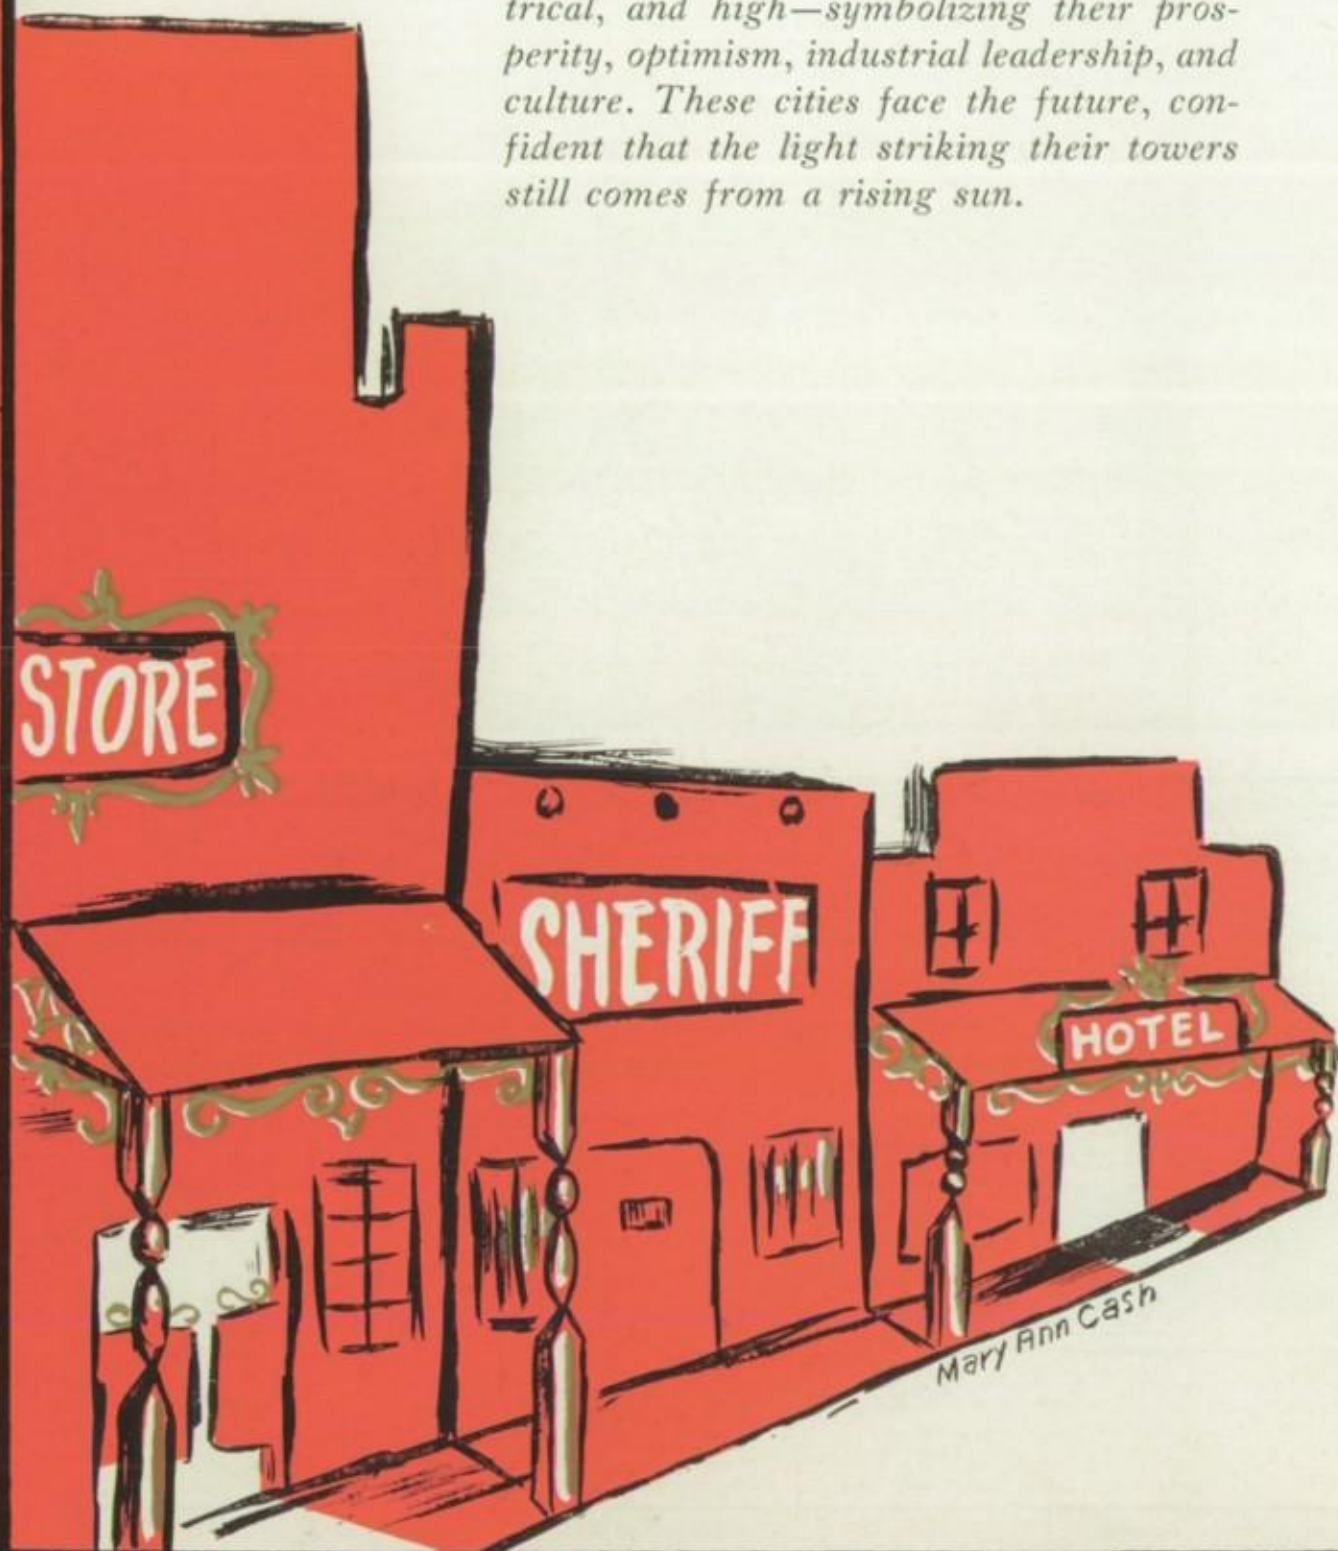

The land of Oklahoma has survived the wars of the Indian and white man, floods, drought, and man-made developments. But nature generously gave Oklahoma wealth above, on, and under the earth. The state has a warm, dry climate, fertile soil, forests, rivers, and great stores of mineral wealth. Land is suited for cotton, grain crops, and luxuriant pasture grasses. Man has built great industries and developed broad farms in the land that was given to the Indians—"as long as grass shall grow and rivers run." Oklahoma has certainly found her "pot of gold" with the uses of her land.

LAND

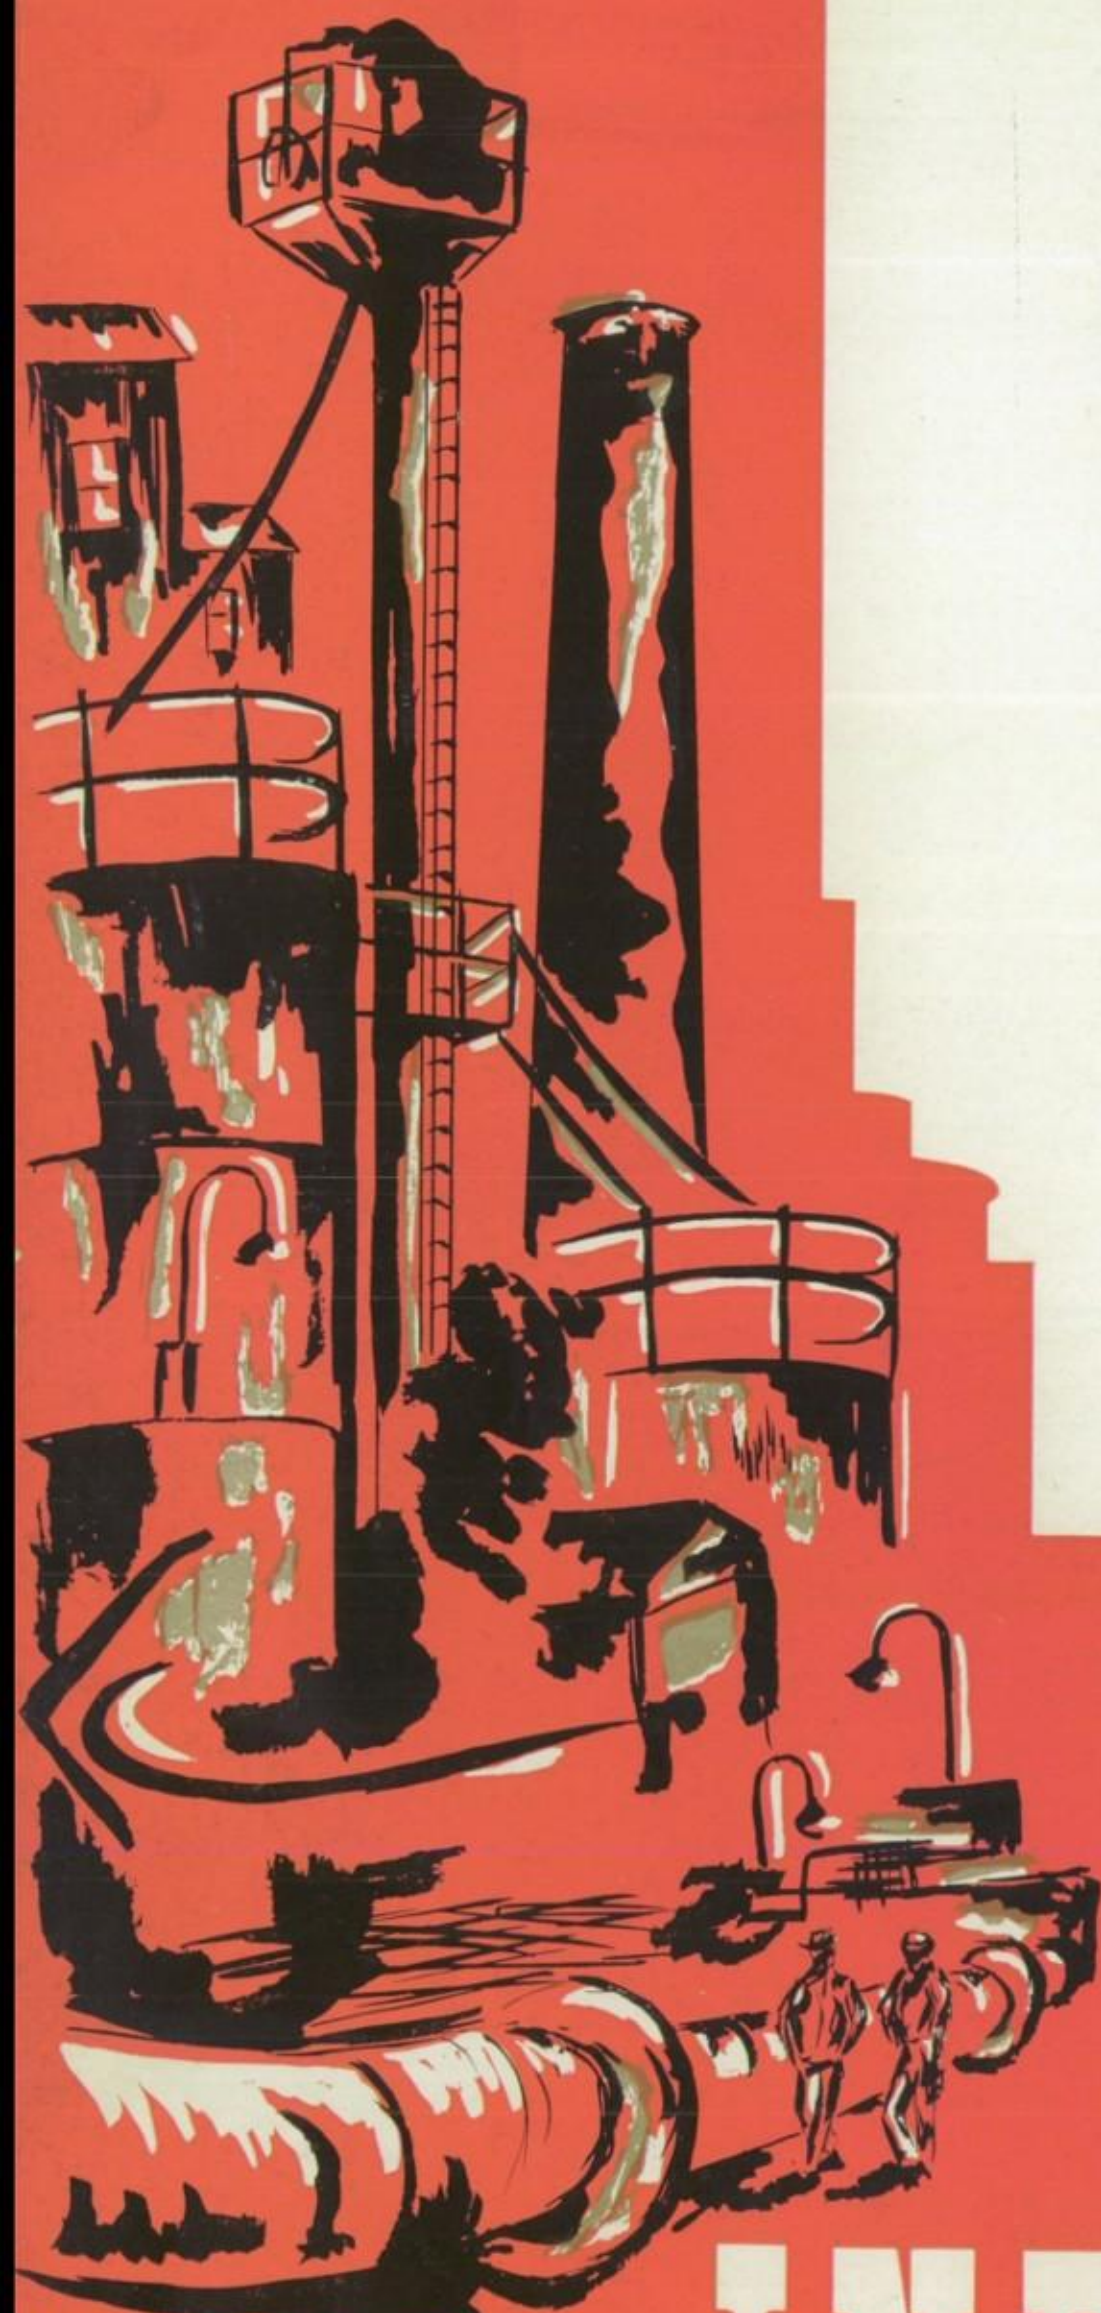

Cities of Oklahoma are the most American of American cities. All the factors—Indian occupation, ranching, pioneering, and industrial development—that have gone into the making of the nation have been intensified here. With statehood the cities entered into a period of greater growth; they grew from cow towns and rendezvous for outlaws to thriving metropolises having startling skylines—so compact, symmetrical, and high—symbolizing their prosperity, optimism, industrial leadership, and culture. These cities face the future, confident that the light striking their towers still comes from a rising sun.

CITIES

Oklahoma citizens have developed distinctive industries. In the early days men discovered vast amounts of available natural resources. Oil, foremost among these, is considered the backbone of Oklahoma. Every phase of the petroleum industry is found in the state—drilling, producing, refining, marketing, equipment manufacturing, contracting, experimenting. Here industry finds adequate water, electric energy, natural gas, minerals, building sites, and labor supply. Production foundaries pour steel, aluminum, iron, bronze, brass, kirkstone, lead, and zinc.

Loretta R. Sharp

INDUSTRY

Cultural activity, so important to the growth and development of a state, is evident. Tulsa's Philbrook Art Center houses masterpieces of the world's most renowned masters, and the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art preserves the history of the American Indian. The Tulsa Philharmonic Society and the Tulsa Opera present programs in the Municipal Theater to provide listeners with the best in music. The Little Theater is the largest community theater of its kind in the world. Schools, colleges, and universities offer opportunities for scholastic advancement. Reaching to the skies, majestic churches solicit spiritual growth.

Seniors Maintain High Standards

The receiving of senior rings and the selection of Miss Central High XXXVI, Darlene Owens, and her senior attendants, Jane Cochran and Pat Jusola, highlighted the first of the year. Carol Williams, Darlene Owens, Ronnie McKinney, and Bill Ragan helped in winning the state cheerleading championship. For its final dramatic performance the class of 1957 presented George Bernard Shaw's popular play, Pygmalion. Every senior enjoyed the Christmas party held in the south auditorium. The most significant events of the year were Class Day, Vespers, Dinner-Dance, and Commencement. Seniors left Central with gratifying remembrances of hopes and ambitions.

Attendance

Larry Bryant, retiring junior class president, presents the gavel of leadership to Avery Coryell, incoming president of the senior class, and wishes him a successful rule throughout the year.

Numerous Activities

The popular trio of Bill Ragan, James Webb, and Chuck Fournier entertains seniors in assembly with the singing of the boys' new record, "Maybe It Will Turn to Love."

Linda Darrell and James Walker portray Eliza Doolittle, Cockney girl, and Professor Higgins, phonetics teacher, in the English comedy, "Pygmalion."

Having been crowned the queen of 1957, Darlene Owens receives the scepter and football as the official symbols of her reign over her loyal subjects, the football team and the entire student body.

Highlight Year of Graduation

Rita Word, Del Jeannene Noel, and Mr. M. M. Black look over high school records that will be important in preparing college admission forms. Mr. Black is always ready to give his valuable time helping those who seek aid.

Jim Self, Central quarterback, carries the ball eight yards for a first down in Central's Loyalty Night game against the Muskogee Roughers.

Meredith Clawson, Carlien Oxley, Jeanne Anderson, Larry Crowell, and Eddie Lanning create a Halloween atmosphere.

Mrs. Bruce Bigelow from Pembroke College explains the entrance requirements to Susan Egnew and Ernestine Gass.

Juniors Carry Away Many Honors

One of the highlights of the year culminated in choosing the standard ring for Central. Juniors, first wearers of the new jewelry, will receive rings before school closes. Victorious Kay Hettick, Jo Rita Miller, and Mary Ellison became attendants to the football queen. Central band members chose Nancy Baldwin to reign as their queen. Making Sabrina Fair a big success, Mary Kate Denny, Bill Schooler, Mike Raynolds, and Mary Alice Koewing played the leading roles. Jo Rita Miller, Richard Conder, Cynthia Macnider, and Mike Ives helped the crack squad of cheerleaders win first place at the Norman clinic.

Victorious after the results were announced in the election of football queen attendants, the three pretty junior girls—Mary Ellison, Kay Hettick, and Jo Rita Miller—beamed with happiness.

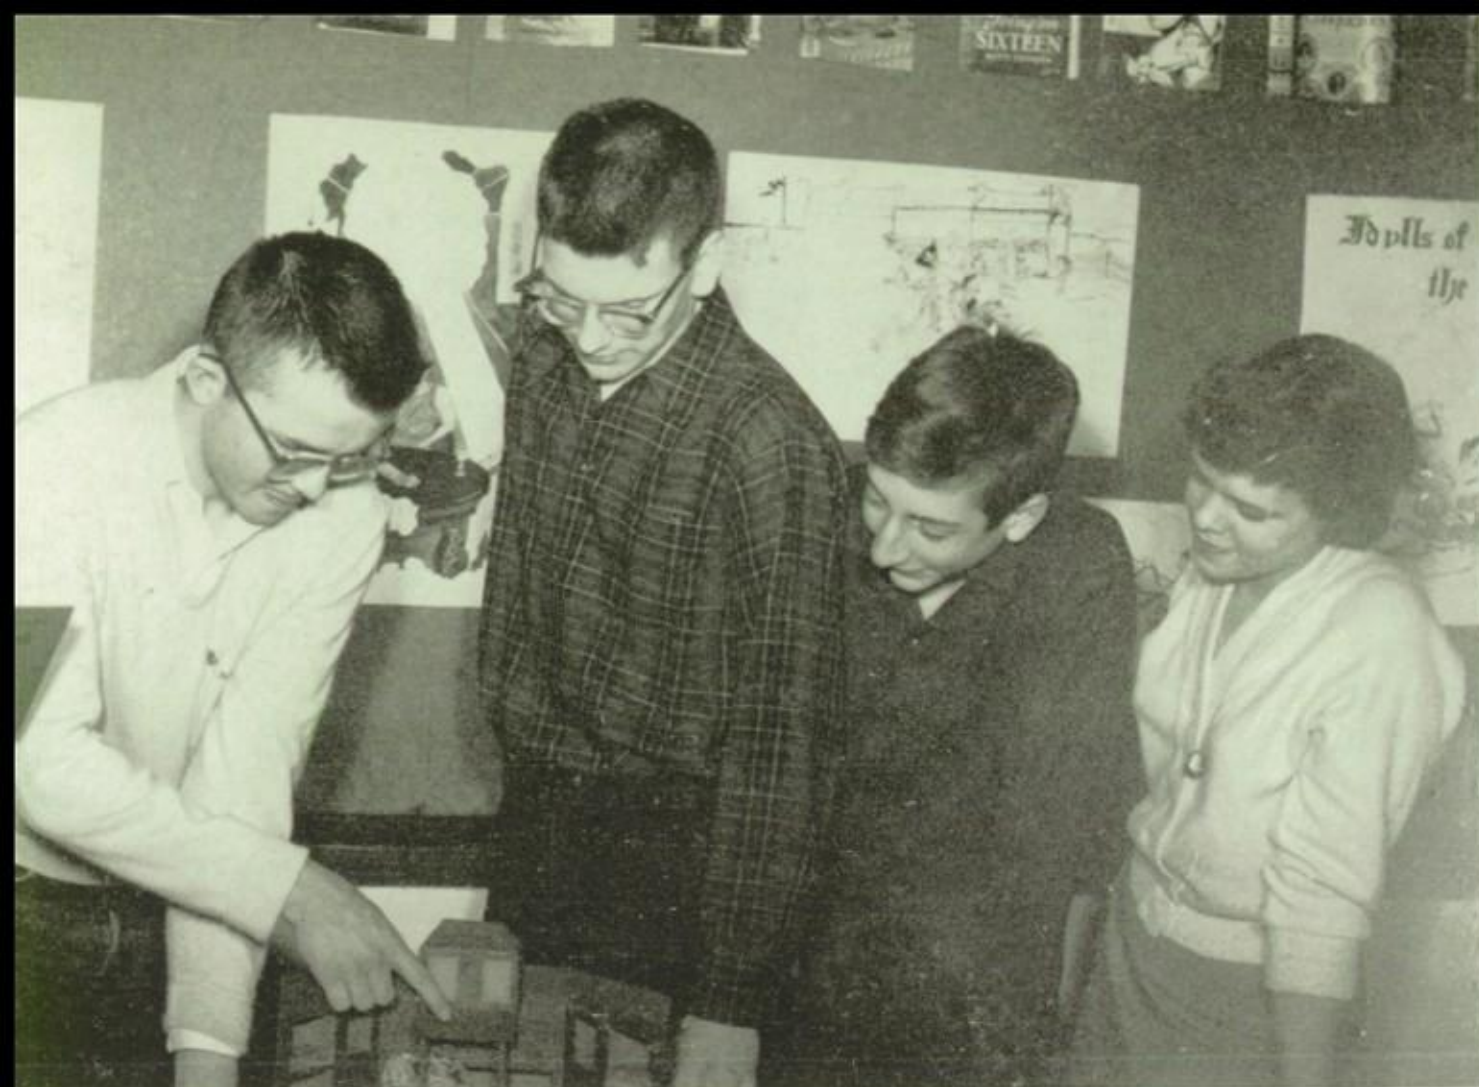

Various Activities Keep

Typical of the many couples who meet at their lockers after school, Henry Will and Sue Rose pause to chat about the day's activities and to get their coats.

Little Nancy Linde smiles as she joins the band royalty—Nancy Withers; Johnny Stout; Patsy Jenni; John Smith; Nancy Baldwin, queen of the band; and David Overley.

Allan Parse, center, explains to John Todd, Judy Moore, Norman Myer, John Watkins, and Nancy Winkle how for extra credit he and Norman made this model of a Shakespearean theater during their study of the play, "Macbeth."

Central's Busy Juniors On The Go

Bill Schooler plays doctor to Mary Kate Denny in the successful junior play, "Sabrina Fair."

Sophomores Abet School Customs

Sophomore Schedule

Electing capable class officers is important for the foundation of any class. Hoping to be victorious in the campaign are Joyce Bruce, Susan Cox, and Jerry Reed.

Pep and enthusiasm, the trademark of the sophomore cheerleaders—Fritzi Allsopp, Dianne Manning, Mike Seiler, and Wyatt Snow—are demonstrated at all sports activities.

New arrivals to Central are entertained at the annual sophomore mixer, sponsored by the Student Council. After seeing an enjoyable talent show, the students dance in the gym to music of John Moore's combo.

Includes Dancing and Awards

Mrs. Mary Louise Simms and Mrs. Lorna Stenger, sophomore counselors, discuss the class activities with Susan Page.

ORGANIZATIONS

Southern Association Holds Convention at Central

Under the student leadership of Larry Bryant, president; Bishy Langenkamp, vice-president; Susan Wilson, recording secretary; Nancy Peacock, corresponding secretary; Peggy Johnston, treasurer; Mary Baker, parliamentarian; and Avery Coryell, Bob Davis, Sharon Dotson, and Sue Rose, inter-school council representatives; the Student Council continued to be one of the busiest and most useful organizations in school. With its faculty sponsor, Miss Faye Laird, it has given opportunity for all interested students to voice opinions on school matters.

In the fall the Southern Association of Student Councils held its annual convention at Central. Sara Campbell, elected by Centralites, served as secretary-treasurer of this convention. Students and faculty cooperated with the council in making this a meeting long to be remembered.

Bishy Langenkamp and Sara Campbell went to the national convention of student councils in Ohio during the summer. In February Larry Bryant, Sara Campbell, Peggy Johnston, and Nancy Peacock went to Bessemer, Alabama, to give suggestions and to help with the plans for the S.A.S.C. convention to be held there next year.

A committee headed by Sharon Dotson and Sue Rose prepared the copy for Hello Central. This directory lists all the students with their street addresses, telephone numbers, and classifications. The council also sponsored the annual Sophomore Mixer and a mixer after the Central-Rogers football game.

Council Arranges for Foreign Exchange Student

Mary Baker, on the right, a student hostess from Central, sees that the delegates to the S.A.S.C. convention from Charleston, West Virginia, have room reservations and programs.

To add to the list of activities and services of the Student Council, a committee of members headed by Sara Campbell, worked long hours in following the necessary steps to get an exchange student for Central next year. Money for the project was earned by home room representatives selling Hello Centrals and book covers.

Other activities which benefited the whole school were selling cokes at the Daze, the opera, and school plays; offering Tom Tom covers for sale; helping with registration at the opening of school; sponsoring tours for new students; and polishing the school trophies.

Another important project was electing the boy-of-the-month. This honor was given each month to a senior boy who excelled in service to school, in scholastic achievement, and in citizenship. These awards, sponsored by the Exchange Club of Tulsa, were climaxed by the election of a boy-of-a-year, one of the highest honors received at Central.

The Student Council is the legislative body of the Student Association, composed of all students duly enrolled at Central. The council membership is made up of elected officers, one representative from each home room, and six members at large.

Meeting semi-monthly on Friday morning at 8:10, the council was one of the most influential organizations in school. Although it had many important functions, still it did not forget its main purpose: to present a place for the American democratic processes to work.

One of the most popular spots during the council convention was near the coke machine. To help the visiting delegates quench their thirst and to see that the machine was loaded and bottles were returned, student council members took charge. Here Avery Coryell, one of the chairmen of the soft drinks committee, hands out cokes.

Red Feathers Support Braves with Songs and Cheers

"Go, Central; go, Central; go! Go! Go!" is a familiar cry heard most Thursday mornings during home room as the members practiced old cheers and learned new ones taught by the cheerleaders. Many lively cheers urged the Braves onward at all sports events.

Cabinet members—Dottie Grubbs, president; Dorothy Mayhew, vice-president; Sandra Pugh, secretary; and Diane Kothe, treasurer — received valuable assistance from Miss Betty Dobbs, head sponsor; Mrs. Bessie Brown, in charge of points; Mrs. Shirley Dalton, in charge of squads; Miss Virginia Hembree, financial adviser; and Mrs. Celesta Jennett, in charge of the cheerleaders.

Members were divided into forty-eight squads, each headed by a squad leader. Every member worked hard to earn points for her squad. Winning squads for the football season, based on the highest percentage rate in attendance at the games, got their pictures in the Tom Tom.

Squad leaders and a best member from each squad wore red skirts and white sweaters with big red C's on them to football games. They formed a double line on the football field through which the players entered.

Selling rooter caps, booster buttons, and pom poms helped finance the activities of Red Feathers. Red Feathers and Scalpers honored Queen Darlene Owens with a Coronation Ball in the boys' gym. All meetings, which were held on Thursday mornings in the north auditorium, and various other activities encouraged the furtherance of the Central spirit.

Frankie Williams and Gloria Beard buy red and white pom poms to use at the Rogers game from Dianne Manning, Ronnie Nesbitt, and Nancy Baldwin, who are gaining points for their squad.

The pep club was under the leadership of a group of officers, sponsors, and cheerleaders — first row: Fritz Alsop, Darlene Owens, Jo Rita Miller, Carol Williams, Dianne Manning; center: Dottie Grubbs; second row: Mrs. Bessie Brown, Miss Betty Dobbs, Sandra Pugh, Dorothy Mayhew, Diane Kothe, Miss Virginia Hembree, Mrs. Celesta Jennett, and Mrs. Shirley Dalton.

Vigorously Cheering, Scalpers Create School Spirit

Scalper members—Roy Bradley, Jerry Smotts, and Eugene Overman—sell tickets to Sandra Doss for the Loyalty Night game with Muskogee. Scalpers work to encourage large attendance.

Enthusiastically cheering their way through another year, Scalpers supported the Braves in the seasons of football, basketball, and baseball. This club, the only pep organization for boys in the Tulsa high schools, was sponsored by Mr. Ernest McHugh and Mr. Kenton Ross.

All 350 members were used at the football games to make the big Central "C" in the cheering section. They helped Red Feathers with the sales of rooster caps, pom poms, and "Yea, Central" buttons.

During the football season Scalpers met every Wednesday morning from 8:50 until 9:15 in the North Auditorium. When the football season was over, the boys met twice a month. Next year they tentatively plan to meet with Red Feathers, the girls' pep organization, at least once a month.

The members offered their services to usher at the Daze, Vespers, and the graduation ceremonies. Presiding over the club was Bill Dissly, assisted by Terry Palmer, vice-president; Steve Wolfe, secretary; and Dave Roseborough, treasurer. The two student assistants to the sponsors were Jim Ault and Charles Harney.

Students Assist School Librarian

"Where will I find information about Julius Caesar?" This familiar question, or one similar, was asked frequently of the library assistants. They had other duties besides answering questions and helping to find books for the students. Typing catalog cards, letters, and reports; mending, checking out, and preparing books for the bindery; and shelving and lettering books were just some of their many tasks.

Reviewers Encourage Good Reading

The Literary Reviewers, as the name implies, found entertainment in studying and analyzing books. Their main purpose was to encourage the reading of good books among all students by the reviewing of books by the members.

Literary Reviewers was under the direction of Miss Helen Hagler, librarian. The president of the organization was Jim Ault, assisted by Ernest Frye, vice-president; Freda Chandler, secretary - treasurer; and Judy Roark, reporter.

Girls' League Groups Promote Friendly Relations

Girls' League was organized in 1935 with the purpose of promoting better relationships and unity among the members, helping others, and furthering the practices of good citizenship.

Presiding over Senior Girls' League was Pat Trower, assisted by Jackie Toney, vice-president; Mary Hazelton, secretary; and Janet Staudt, treasurer. Junior Girls' League was under the leadership of Sue Rose, president; Patty Felkel, vice-president; Lois Eby, secretary; and Floyanne Griffin, treasurer. The sophomores elected Judy Lawrence, president; Pat Kallenberger, vice-president; Sondra Wattenbarger, secretary; and Sue Curtis, treasurer. These officers were assisted in cabinet meetings by one representative from every homeroom. Together they planned the year's activities.

Every girl in Central was a member of Girls' League. The organization met once a month under the sponsorship of Mrs. Minnie Mae Summers. Prominent speakers, films, and other forms of educational activities provided interesting and enjoyable meetings for the girls. In February Girls' League sponsored the style shows given by the home-making department.

An interest in state and national government was inspired when Janet Staudt and Jackie Toney told of their visit to Girls' State. Honor was brought to the organization when Janet Staudt won the Daughters of the American Revolution Award based on scholarship, citizenship, and leadership. She was chosen from a list of nine candidates.

Janet Staudt and Jackie Toney admire the newly-purchased television set which was given to the school by the combined Girls' League groups.

Emotional and Social Stability Aim of Allied Youth

"Who will bid one dollar? Two dollars? Three-fifty? Going, going, and gone to the boy in the red shirt." Allied Youth did not offer auction lessons. These strange statements were just for dates with the queen, the king, or their attendants to the annual carnival dance, sponsored by the Allied Youth.

Growing up emotionally and socially, realizing better ways of overcoming tensions and social pressure than drinking alcoholic beverages, and helping other people who already have the drinking problem are the objectives that hold the members of Allied Youth together all over the nation.

Providing educational films, engaging speakers, and helping with social activities were some of the duties of the officers—Bill Burton, president; Darlene Owens, vice-president; Nancy Clark, recording secretary; and Sharon McClure, corresponding secretary; and Raymond Bothell, treasurer. The sponsors were Mr. William C. Lantz, Mr. Clarence Ehlers, and Miss Rachel Blackburn.

A group of ten members of Allied Youth—Colleen Ellington, Elvie Wells, Shirley Dunn, Wanda Wise, Teresa Wright, Morty Reynolds, Linda Eaton, Linda Turner, Pat Searcy, and Rosalind Rankin—journeyed with Coach Ehlers in November to Buckhill Falls, Pennsylvania, for the international conference, where Elvie Wells won the office of vice-president in charge of projects and finances.

Shortly after Christmas vacation a marathon dance was held in boys' gymnasium. Suzane Lifton and Pete Scott won first prize.

Members! Members! Members! That is the purpose of Clash Day in the fall. Entering into the contest are Nancy Fenton, Linda Johnston, Perry Thomas, Glenda Roof, and Joyce Schlichting.

Each year an Allied Youth committee collects pictures, items from the official magazine, and pertinent newspaper articles of interest to members of Central's post. Looking over the scrapbook are the officers—Raymond Bothell, Nancy Clark, Bill Burton, Sharon McClure, and Darlene Owens.

AY'ers compete for the shining trophy to be awarded the winning couple at the dance marathon in February.

Pete Scott and Suzanne Lifton beam with happiness at the trophy they are receiving from Mr. Carl M. McCafferty.

Tri-Hi-Y Delegates Take Over State Government

"There are girls in the lobby of the Y.M.C.A.! How did they get in here? Can't a man have some privacy?" This excited remark came from a boy who happened to see girls gathering for a Tri-Hi-Y meeting on a Tuesday night. To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school, home, and community high standards of Christian character was the purpose of the club.

The sponsors, Miss Barbara Offutt, and her assistant, Miss Fannie Sue Jackson, and the officers—Sandra Beach, president; Ginger Highfill, vice-president; Jennifer Curtis, secretary; Mary Lindsey, treasurer; and Ada Jackson, chaplain—created an enjoyable year for the club members.

Delegates, who were chosen by the group to attend the pre-legislature convention at Tulsa University in late October, were eligible to attend Youth and Government in Oklahoma City during January.

The greatest thrill for the whole group during the year was the trip to Blackwell, Oklahoma, in April for their annual state convention.

Leaving for Youth in Government at Oklahoma City are the representatives—Jennifer Curtis, Mary Lindsey, Ada Jackson, and Sandra Beach.

Y-Teens Help High School Girls Plan for Future

In planning for the future the Y-Teens had a full year. Programs were presented to the girls in social and vocational fields to help them make decisions for later life.

Vocational school proved to be a great help. Various occupations were presented by such people as airline hostesses, teachers, and college students. Representatives gave requirements for training to the girls and then had open discussions.

Every year Y-Teen representatives attend a workshop at Camp Parthenia to plan programs and to stimulate participation by the members.

Throughout the year skating parties were held. Camp Parthenia became a favorite spot for slumber parties. Keeping in season, a Halloween dance was held in October, a Valentine one on February 14, and the annual spring semi-formal at the Y in March.

Presiding over meetings was Maydel Whelchel, president. Serving with her were Caryl Smith, vice-president; Patsy Bradley, treasurer; and Jackie Sheetz, secretary. Miss Jeanne Aston sponsored the Central club.

Several members of Y-Teens—Nettie Berg, Kathleen Pruitt, and Jackie Sheetz—help Maydel Whelchel, seated, plan forthcoming meetings.

Lettermen Learn Sportsmanship, Excel in Athletics

The Lettermen's Club was one of the proudest groups of boys at Central because each member wore the school "T" for excellent performance in a sports activity. Boys at Central had the opportunity to letter in football, basketball, wrestling, cross country, track, swimming, tennis, and golf.

The club endeavored to promote good sportsmanship and increased interest in athletics. It gave its members the chance to hear leading authorities on sports explain the need of such activities in the life of a student. During the past year Coach William C. Lantz of Central and Lt. Robert Shuck of the Air National Guard were two of the speakers.

Under the guidance of their sponsors, Mr. Emmett Nolan and Mr. Kenneth Bays, the members met on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. Jim Self, the president, was assisted by—John Shackelford, vice-president; Bill Knowles, secretary; and Dawyne Pollard, treasurer. The boys held a spring picnic paid for with money from showing football movies.

Managers Check School Equipment

Behind the scenes at every sports event worked a group of boys known as the Athletic Managers.

At practice sessions and games these boys checked out and in equipment belonging to the boys' physical education department.

They saw that all gear was in condition to be used. They were as much a part of a squad as was any team member. When the athletic letters were awarded, the managers were eligible for the honor. Coach Ehlers was their faculty sponsor.

Hams Talk To Russian Amateurs

Amateur Radio Club met every Wednesday morning at 8:00 under the leadership of Mr. Carl Cason. Members studied to get an amateur radio license.

Vernon Jackson served as president. Other cabinet members were Jim Reese, vice-president; Charles Poplinger, secretary; and Richard Silverman, trustee and activities manager.

During their study halls some of the members operated a ham station, over which they received a call from Moscow, Russia.

Members of Rifle Club Shoot for Sport, Awards

Winchester, Remington, Stevens—these words are very familiar to approximately thirty boys of the Rifle Club who occupied the girls' gym every Tuesday afternoon at 3:35.

They combined fun and work in shooting to earn the awards given by the National Rifle Association. Under the expert eyes of their new sponsor, Mr. Robert Jankovitz, and their president, John Mansur, the Rifle Club members competed in the Army Qualification Course for small bore. This program was open for senior boys, and the members who had the highest shooting average was presented with a handsome medal. On various days during the year the club held turkey shoots and ham shoots to encourage the boys to make better averages.

Other officers in the club included Jim Martin, vice-president; Richard Porterfield, secretary; Lewis Houser, range officer; Terry Brentlinger, assistant range officer; and Hal Williams, pistol instructor. At the end of the year after the awards had been given to the various members, a party for the officers and sponsors was held at a local restaurant.

Practicing their aim, Richard Porterfield, John Mansur, Jim Martin, and Lewis Houser squint as they line up the target in their gun sights.

Ticket Sales Keep Advertising Board Members Busy

During the year a very important group of people gave their services to the school as members of the Advertising Board. The officers—Bob Thompson, president; Judy Stenger, vice-president; and Margaret Schiff, secretary-treasurer—were aided in directing the activities of the club by the sponsor, Mrs. Lorna Stenger. The ticket committee of the board took charge of the campaigns and ticket sales for the two speech arts plays and the operetta. The members of this committee were on duty every morning for many weeks to help make these productions successful.

Another job of the Advertising Board was the maintenance of the multi-colored electric sign in the north hall. Announcements of general interest to students were posted on the sign where all could read them.

Meetings were called by Mrs. Stenger about once a month in room 329A at 8:15 on Monday mornings. At these meetings the campaigns and the activities of the club were discussed. The twelve members of the board were chosen from students who applied in the fall to Mrs. Stenger.

Posting the events of the month on the electric sign are members of Advertising Board—Margaret Schiff, Bob Davis, Bob Thompson, Judy Stenger.

Camaratas Donate Their Time to Usher for Programs

Camarata is a service organization whose motto is "service to the school." Attributes of a member are loyalty, faithfulness to duty, and the desire to give assistance.

The organization elected Kay Williamson to serve as its president. Other members of the cabinet were Brenda Wilson, vice-president; Peggy Johnston, secretary, and Judy Owen, treasurer.

The members held their meetings every other Wednesday morning during homeroom period in room 426 to discuss problems in ushering and to improve their manners as hostesses. Mrs. Wincel Hurt and Mrs. Thelma Berggren sponsored Camarata, having a membership of fifty junior and senior girls.

Camaratas donated their time to usher for all the class plays, the speech arts plays, the opera, the P.-T.A. reception, and Back-to-School Night.

In the spring members were selected from sophomore and junior girls who applied for membership by filing applications.

A tea to honor the new officers and members for the following year was given in May.

Before curtain time for the senior class play, officers—Judy Owen, Kay Williamson, Peggy Johnston, and Brenda Wilson—check programs.

Key Club Gives Service to School and Community

Striving to supply service for the school and the community was the motto of the Key Club. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the group accomplished many fund raising and service events. Since its birth in 1951 at Central the members of the club have made it an essential organization in the school.

The group met every Tuesday evening at 7:15 in room 226. Officers were Bob Reis, president; Tom Baxter, vice-president; Joe Mills, secretary; and Bill Burton, treasurer. Mr. Glen Flora and Mr. Marion McQuigg were faculty supervisors.

The club participated in many worthwhile projects. Furnishing ticket takers for all auditorium events, marching in the annual Christmas Parade, collecting funds for the needy families and muscular dystrophy, purchasing six prints of paintings to be displayed in Central's halls, and serving as guides for business men on Educational-Business Day were few of the events in which the boys took part.

They also sponsored the Lenten chapel services in the south auditorium during Easter season.

To support the fund for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Oklahoma, Joe Mills and David Peterson sell a car tag to Gene Iba.

Girls' Recreation Association Offers Many Sports

Under the guidance of the sponsor, Miss Robbie Wright, and the officers—Betty McIntosh, president; Arva Faucett, vice-president; Norma Davidson, secretary; and Carol Forrest, treasurer—the members of the Girls' Recreation Association all agree that this year was indeed a successful one.

G.R.A.'s program offered team competition in field hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball. There was individual competition in archery and tennis. The girls presented the annual water ballet.

Having earned a specified number of points through participation in various sports events, members were awarded medals, letters, and chevrons. The girls also worked throughout the year in the hope of being selected to attend the G.R.A. camp at Camp Cimarron. Last summer Arva Faucett and Sandy Trigg attended the camp and brought back many suggestions that added to the success of the association during the year.

At the Christmas party and again at the spring picnic, members joined for the fun and fellowship best known by the girls in the G.R.A.

Talented Water Ballet Members Swim for Central

Water Ballet, a relatively new organization at Central, recruited many members last September. The first few months were spent in teaching the fundamental strokes and stunts to the beginners. Meeting for practice every Thursday after school in the girls' gym, the members swam in the girls' pool.

Since its beginning the ballet group has presented a water show to entertain the students and faculty of Central. This year the theme of the show was "Movies." There were two performances on April 4 and 6. The members worked diligently under the leadership of Sandy Trigg, president; Maxine McCrary, vice-president; and Patty Franklin, secretary-treasurer. Miss Robbie Wright directed the group.

Aside from working, the water ballet members have fun also. In May a picnic was held at the home of one of the members. Twenty-three girls belonged to this organization. The club represented part of the Girls' Recreation Association, which includes many various sports activities.

Nine girls who are practicing for the annual water ballet demonstrate their ability to do swimming designs with precision and skill.

Scientific-Minded Students Study Advanced Physics

Advanced Physical Science, one of the newer organizations at Central, was under the sponsorship of Mr. George Hall. Future scientists and engineers made up the majority of class.

This organization met daily during fifth hour. A better understanding of science and engineering was the goal of each and every member. An above average grade status in all classes, chemistry, physics, trigonometry, and second year algebra are the pre-requisites for membership.

Several lectures were given by prominent speakers in various scientific fields. Jay Beaman and Betty Culp were co-chairmen of the lecture committee. Films and field trips also added to the interest and enjoyment of the class. Pat Tatum was in charge of the film committee which secured numerous educational films to further their knowledge of science. Neal Williams, head of the field trip committee, helped to plan trips to the DX-Sunray Refinery, the Carter and the Stanolind Oil Companies.

Mike Gilmartin completed a project on arithmetic progressions which won a Westinghouse Science Talent Search award.

Jim Sidwell demonstrates the operation of his two cycle, internal combustion gasoline engine to Neal Williams, who looks on with interest.

Knowledge of World Affairs Develops Understanding

International Club, sponsored by Mrs. Velma Reves, strove to gain in understanding by learning about the world of today. The members, students from all the classes, heard many interesting speakers. Students, teachers, and professional men and women who had visited foreign countries spoke to the club about their trips and their observations of life in other lands. For one meeting a panel of members gave talks on the United Nations, what it is and what it does. At other times the group discussed current international affairs.

Besides the regular meetings, which were held every other Tuesday in room 315 after school, the club had a dinner and a picnic. As a special project, the organization sent contributions to CARE for Hungarian relief. In order to learn more about customs and schools in other countries, many members corresponded with foreign students.

The club was headed by Eloise Charles. Other officers were Sharon Bunnell, vice-president; Norman Stinson, secretary; Lee Fearon, treasurer; and Pat Tatum, parliamentarian.

A panel consisting of Anne Fearon, Myrna Gimp, Caroline Marsh, and Sharon Bunnell present facts and opinions about Russia and her satellites.

Speakers' Bureau Members Practice Public Speaking

Susie Watson, Joyce Schlichting, James Webb, Mary Baker, and Linda Darrell prepare the minstrel show given in Speakers' Bureau assembly.

Speakers' Bureau, an organization for juniors and seniors, helped its members develop their abilities for public speaking. In advertising the two speech arts plays, the members made talks at many civic clubs in Tulsa. Hearing oral reports and giving them in meetings also aided the students to overcome difficulties in speaking.

At the meetings, which were held every two weeks on Monday and Tuesday mornings in room 222, extemporaneous and impromptu speeches, debates, panel discussions, and skits were planned and directed by the members. Programs on television were on the list of Speakers' Bureau accomplishments. Also a part of the club's activities were the Christmas party, a progressive dinner, and a dinner dance.

The president, Harold Woods, was assisted by Robert Reis, vice-president; Susie Watson and Joyce Schlichting, secretaries; and Joan Elliston, treasurer. Miss Laurine Hager, sponsor, helped the officers in planning and giving programs, such as the minstrel show that the bureau presented in general assembly.

In the late spring applicants for membership made auditions with impromptu speeches of a minute in length.

Members of Thespians Enhance Dramatic Talent

"Act well your part; therein all honor lies." These words are the motto of the National Thespian Society, comprised of students interested in the theater. This group had twenty-three members, who were selected because of their interest and participation in dramatic productions at Central.

Danny Conner was president of the organization. Other members of the cabinet included James Walker, vice-president; Linda Darrell, secretary; Maxine Kluck, treasurer; and Virginia Maddox, scribe.

Thespians met in room 216 every other Monday and Tuesday before homeroom under the sponsorship of Mrs. Iona Ballew Freeman. During these meetings they studied and practiced the phases of dramatics.

Danny Conner was awarded the honor of the Best Thespian for the first semester.

At Christmastime former Thespians were honored at an open house in the home of Floyanne Griffin. The major event of the year was the Regional Thespian Conference, May 4, at which Central's Chapter 817 served as host to the other units in Oklahoma.

Danny Conner, Virginia Maddox, Linda Darrell, Maxine Kluck, and James Walker practice good tonal quality with the aid of a tape recorder.

Stagecraft Brings Fame to Central Productions

Ronnie Sturgeon, Tom Aude, and Murray Engle learn to operate lights, backdrops, scenery, and properties in their stagecraft class.

Central is well-known for her successful productions. These would not be made possible without the capable ability of the members of the stagecraft organization. For forty years this hard-working group has set up scenery, built sets, and operated the sound and lighting equipment. Mr. Albert Martin has sponsored the organization since 1929.

Meetings were held every Monday afternoon in the South Auditorium. Tommy Aude presided over the club, assisted by Linda Darrell, secretary. The property manager was Pat Ratliff; Bob Goddard was in charge of scenery; and Murray Engle took care of the lighting.

Members spent many hours before, after, and during school to prepare the stage for the plays, the opera, the Daze, the assemblies, and other events.

A new special effect was added to their large variety of notable accomplishments. During the senior class play water from an apparatus fell to look like rain.

In spite of all the work the club had fun going on a week-end camping trip near Siloam Springs, Arkansas, and attending all of the play cast parties.

Projectionists Operate Visual Education Machines

Through the visual education department of the Tulsa public schools many aids to the educational process are available. To make possible the showing of this material was the purpose of the Projection Club.

To become a member, a student had to apply to Mr. Albert Martin, stage director and sponsor of the club. After being chosen, the boys learned how to operate the projectors used for showing visual education material. They were also taught how to take care of the fragile film and how to repair it in case of breakage. When they ran a projector, they were responsible for all the equipment.

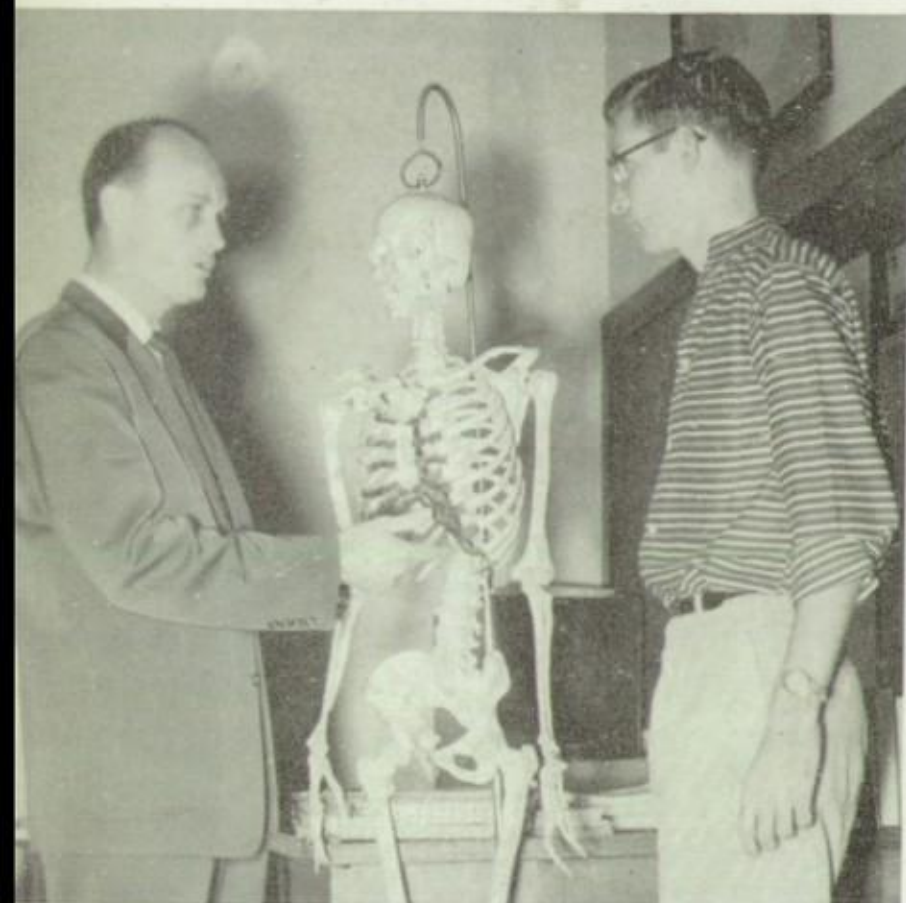

The club had a schedule telling the time and the place movies were to be shown. Some boy was available to run a projector any period during the day. Each member was on duty for approximately one hour each day. "It's almost like a study hall," said Pat Devlin; "only we earn half a credit a semester."

Officers of the club were Eddie Wilson, president; Pat Devlin, vice-president; and Johnny Clark, secretary.

Inspection of the movie projector is a routine task for Eddie Joe Wilson, Johnny Jarrett, and John Hughes as they prepare to show a film.

Medico Club Visits Oklahoma School of Medicine

Dr. D. L. Brawner, a well-known surgeon in Tulsa, points out the bone structure of "Oscar," to Norman Berg, the president of Medico Club.

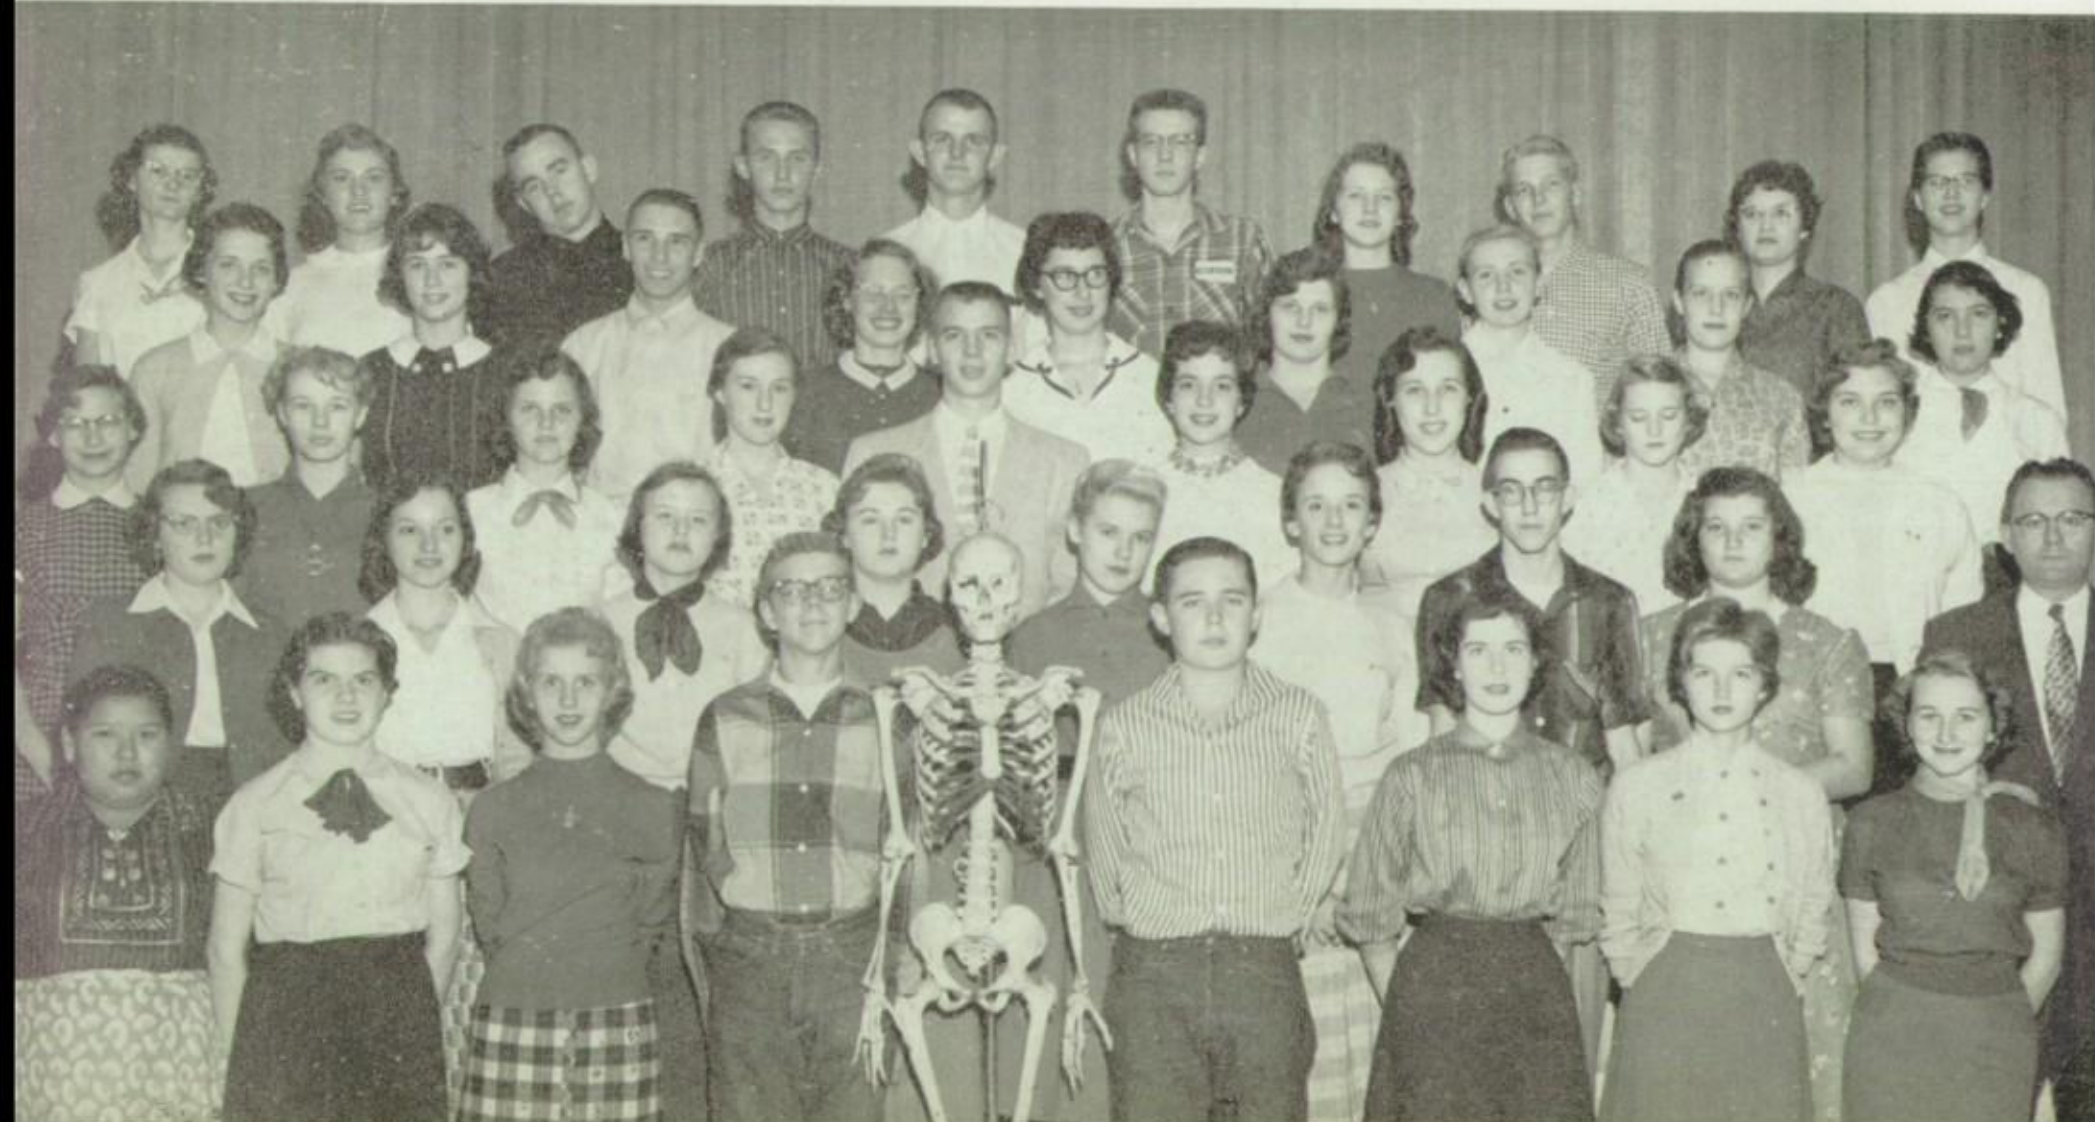

Centralites wanting to be doctors, dentists, nurses, or other professional people connected with the medical field gathered in room 318 every Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 for Medico Club meetings.

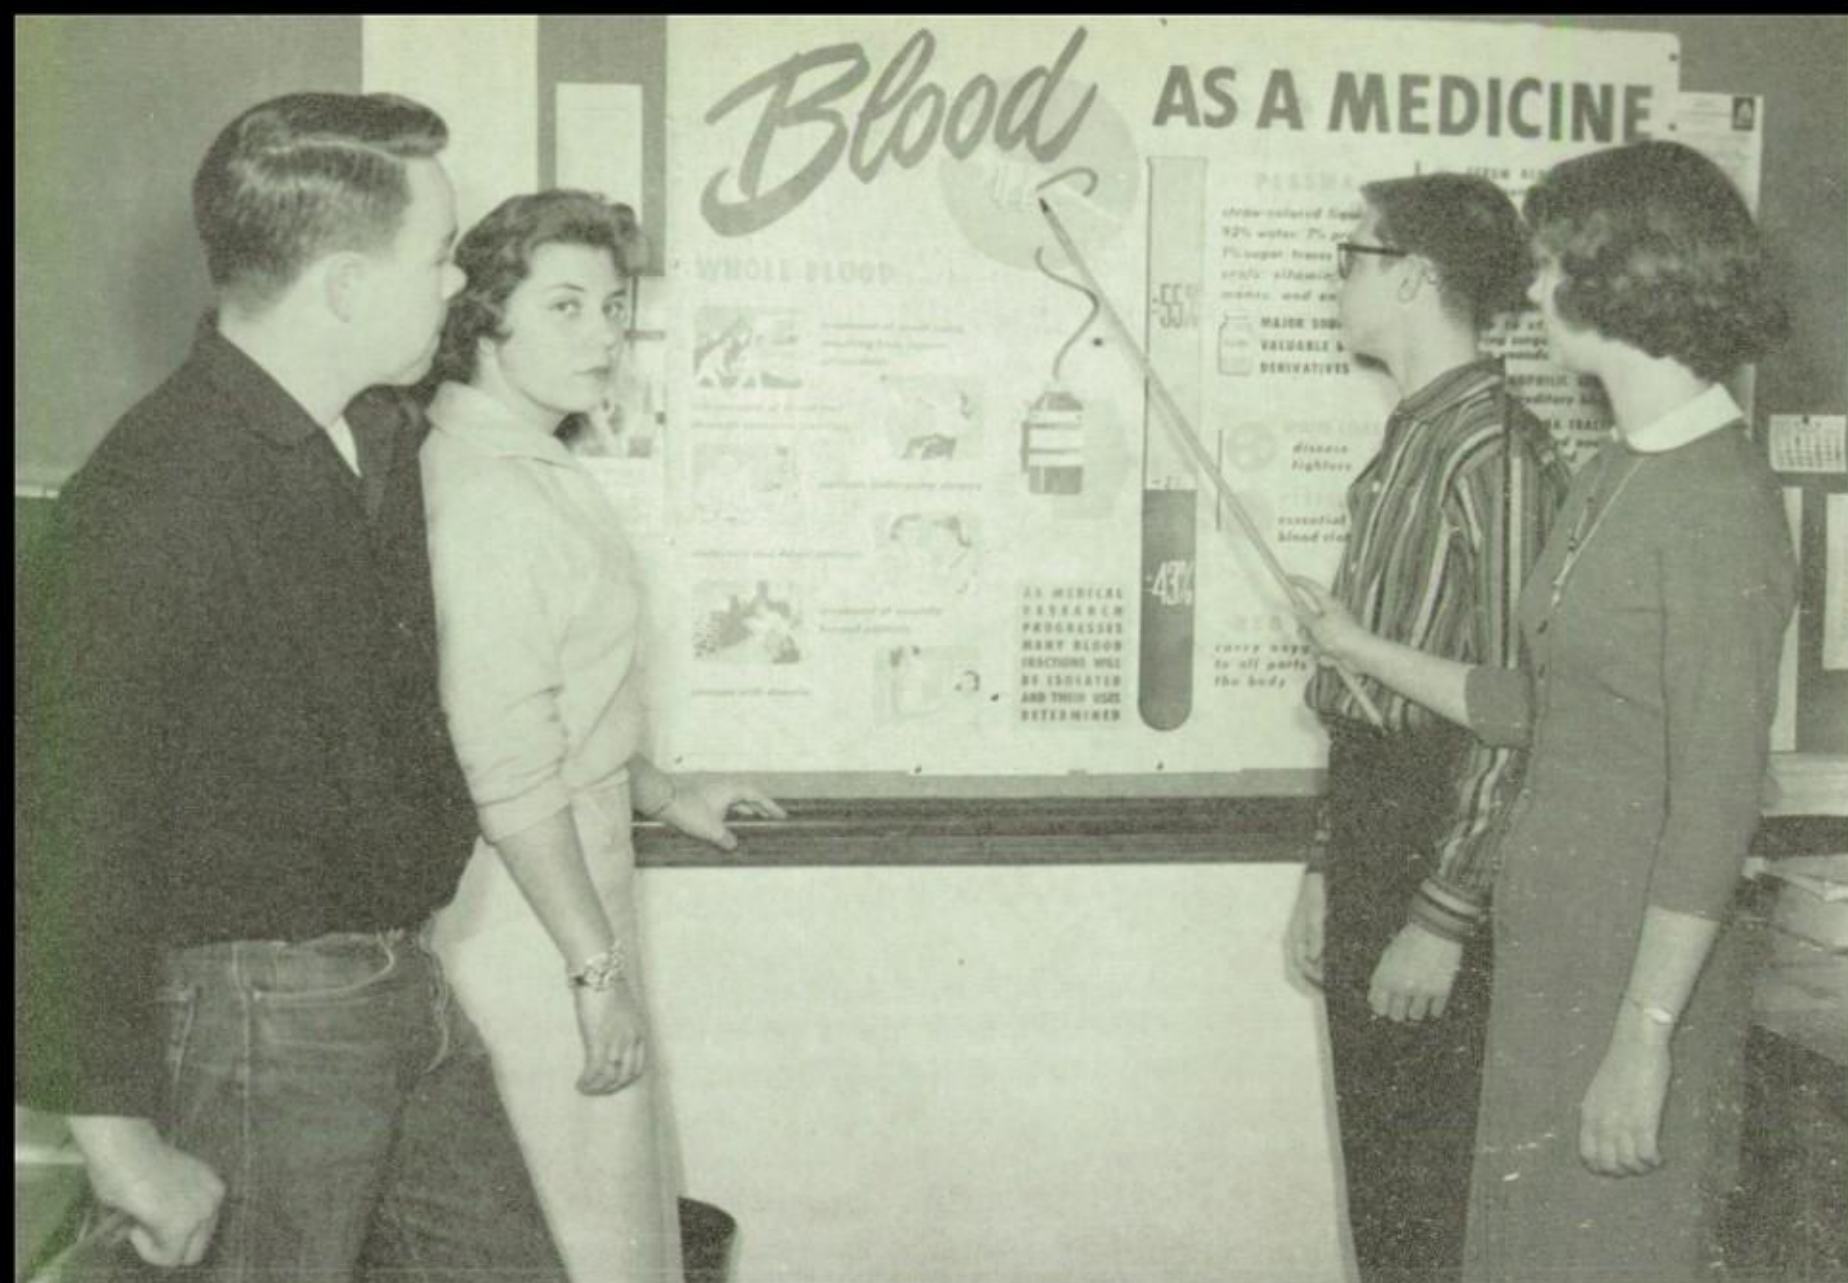

Mr. Aubrey Baer, sponsor, said proudly that about 24 local doctors and dentists have been members of Medico Club. Now on occasions these men and women return to relate to prospective students in the field of medicine some of their experiences. Other Tulsa specialists and nurses from the city hospitals spoke on pertinent subjects.

Sixty club members went by bus to Oklahoma City to visit the hospital, the medical and the nursing schools of the University of Oklahoma, and the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation.

At Christmas time the group enjoyed a party planned by the officers—Norman Berg, president; David Spencer, vice-president; Sue Anderson, recording secretary; Edith Hartness, social secretary; Martha Hurt, attendance secretary; Freda Rine, assistant attendance secretary; and JoAnn Hatchett, treasurer.

Steve Wakeford, Barbara Wolfe, and Wendell Wheeler listen with interest as Mary Louise Essman, right, explains to them the blood chart in the background, which reveals the composition, functions, and practical uses of whole blood.

Mr. Aubrey Baer, tells Dorothy Duerr, Charles Hogins, and Patricia O'Neal about an important muscle of the human body. He demonstrates that three important functions of the muscles are the support, the motivation, and the form of the body.

Society Acquires Information About Tulsa History

If a person wanted to know the time Tulsa was born, the place the first oil well was drilled, or the location of the first post office, the group to ask was the Tulsa Historical Society. Giving accurately prepared information for the use in city anniversary observances, drawing the public's attention for the need of correct identification of Tulsa's historic sites, and collecting appropriate materials for historical museums were the purposes of the club.

Students regularly enrolled in one of five classes of community history formed the Tulsa Historical Society. Each class elected its own officers, and the entire group chose a cabinet. The officers of the group were Larry Chandler, president; Johnny Clarke, vice-president; Don Chapman, senator. The sponsor, Mrs. Edith Daugherty, who is the community history teacher, directed the officers in planning a busy year.

Holding their regular meetings during daily class periods, students learned through reading and discussions valuable information concerning Tulsa history. Projects, surveys, field trips, and research added to their knowledge.

On January 18 the annual joint meeting of the groups was held. To commemorate the first chapter, which was organized in 1908, the organization had a picnic which several former active members attended on May 8. The final activity of the Tulsa Historical Society was the presentation in general assembly of a pageant based on Oklahoma history.

During their study of local Oklahoma history Claude Easley, Sue Sellers, and Philip Whitney locate Tulsa on the globe of the world.

Showing the location of Central High School on an aerial-view map of Tulsa, Don Chapman, senator, points out to Judy Gower, secretary-treasurer, and Larry Chandler, president, that on such a map the school seems small, although in reality it covers an entire city block.

Tom Tom Staff Writes History of School Year

On the first day of school the 1957 Tom Tom staff started creating a yearbook. Pictures had to be scheduled and taken; cutlines had to be written; deadlines had to be met; a million things to do fell on the shoulders of the busy art staff under the direction of Mr. Bob K. Bartholic and the editorial staff supervised by Miss Ruth Holton.

In October five members of the editorial group attended the Interscholastic Press Association meeting at the University of Oklahoma in Norman. At this conference the 1956 Tom Tom won the award "With Highest Honors."

Eighteen seniors comprised the first semester editorial staff. Only ten remained second semester to complete the book—Martha Hurt, editor; Maxine McCrary, assistant editor; Judy Dye, business manager; Bob Boyle and Charles Slater, photographers; Jennifer Curtis, Linda Elstner, Jane Rader, Judy Stenger, and Leah Vogel.

The cover for Tom Tom, designed by Terry Lovell, carried out the theme—The 1957 Tom Tom Salutes Oklahoma.

Judy Dye, Martha Hurt, and Maxine McCrary inspect the cover of the 1957 Tom Tom, which illustrates the theme, "50 Years of Oklahoma."

Busy Members of School Life Turn Out Newspapers

Under the expert eyes of their sponsor, Miss Anna Crotchett, the School Life staff at Central delivered a weekly newspaper to the five Tulsa high schools.

If a person wandered into the journalism office, room 120A, any morning during the week, he found some of the 13 staff members bent over their typewriters or eagerly proof-reading galleys of copy. Others might have been covering newsbeats, which are routine checks with teachers who may have some interesting news for the paper. Whether they were covering a football game, a class play, or an event in a classroom, the three words always in the minds of the reporters were efficiency, accuracy, and promptness.

Out of the 24 editions that were published this year, the two which were remembered the longest by the staff were the Daze edition and the special senior edition which appeared in May.

The editors of School Life included Judy Brownfield, editor-in-chief; Sonny Kaufman, feature editor; Jack Dunham, sports editor; and Judy Sharp, copy editor.

Distributors Concentrate on Selling Procedures

Examining a copy of the newspaper printed for student members of the Distributors' Club, the D.E.C. News, are Donna Smith and Don Harris.

People who were interested in retailing, wholesaling, advertising, and selling found it worthwhile spending some time with the Distributors' Club, sponsored by Mrs. Loucillah Kirkpatrick. The members of the group heard such speakers as Mr. Harry Clark, Jr., a personnel director, and took field trips to the four largest department stores in Tulsa and to the Magic Empire Market.

In November 65 members were initiated into the club at a banquet at the Alvin Hotel. The organization also published a newspaper called the D.E.C. News. The editor was Donna Smith; and the junior co-editor, Gene Beach.

At the annual Christmas party club members brought toys to donate to underprivileged children.

Traveling to Oklahoma City, delegates attended the state convention in March and the national convention in April.

Officers for the year were George Steed, president; Harold Duncan, vice-president; Wanda Andrew, secretary; Beverly Morgan, treasurer; and Joe Burge, parliamentarian.

Trade and Industrial Club Prepares for Business

Blue and white jackets hold a significant meaning at Central. These jackets with the cogwheel emblem on them belong to the members of the Trade and Industrial Club.

Thirty-three students, representing twelve trades, made up the club. An arrangement of schedule made it possible for the boys to attend classes one half day to fulfill academic requirements and to work the other half day. This combination of school and job gave the members enough credits to graduate as well as experience in the business world.

The school year started with a bang for the D.E.'ers when the annual initiation party was held in September at the home of Mr. Richard Kisner, sponsor. Again in October the boys and their dates enjoyed an evening at Mr. Kisner's having a weiner roast and playing games.

Participation in the state organization aroused new interest in the group. The officers—James Houston, president; Stephen Harkey, vice-president; and Burl Denney, secretary-treasurer—helped to guide the club to a successful year.

Leaders Examine Business Careers

Participation in Future Business Leaders of America helped students to decide on careers in business fields. The members enjoyed listening to speakers, touring the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, and acting as hosts for teachers visiting the business education rooms during the NEOEA meeting.

They were under the leadership of Mrs. Geneva Pitt, sponsor; Dalena Patterson, president; Lorena Bounds, vice-president; Roslyn Sperber, secretary; Glenda Roof, treasurer; Jean Wilkins, reporter.

Council President Attends International Meeting

Richard Roberts, president of the Red Cross Council, went with a group of 32 other American students last summer to attend the American Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Center in Chiemsee, Germany. As a result of Richard's enthusiasm gained from the experience, the Central council has intensified its aim of service to others.

To carry out this purpose the group donated articles obtained from the Penworthy drive to the Veterans' Hospital in Muskogee and to the Children's Medical Center. Some of the members at Halloween entertained at the hospital. They sent gift boxes overseas, held weekly scrap paper drives, gave $25 to the Hungarian relief program, and sent two subscriptions of 15 magazines to the Veterans' Hospital. Several girls worked as nurses' aides at Hillcrest Hospital.

Another event, held annually, was the windshield wiping campaign to publicize the blood center program.

The Red Cross Council met every other Wednesday morning under the faculty guidance of Mrs. Susie Sunderland. Besides Richard, other officers were Anita Randell, vice-president; Carol Grever, secretary; David Mayes, treasurer; and Judy Houston, historian.

Jo Rita Miller, Richard Roberts, Anita Randell, Harold Sorrels, and Susan Robinson enthusiastically tabulate a collection of Penworthy coupons.

Future Homemakers Concentrate on Good Family Life

Girls in Future Homemakers of America learned about family fun, baby sitting, good grooming, and home economics as a career.

Installation of officers gave members a chance to honor their parents with a tea. Other social events consisted of numerous parties, including the celebration of Christmas and Valentine's Day. A spring party in honor of the outgoing senior members also highlighted the year's activities. Students were again in for a treat when Aina Fridrichson, student of Central from Latvia, gave a talk on family life in foreign lands.

The Future Homemakers of America elected Carol Moss to preside over their organization. She was assisted by Sandra Shoemaker, vice-president; Maydel Whelchel, secretary; Betty Broam, treasurer; Lorena Bounds, parliamentarian; Florence Hayhurst, historian; and Eula Mae Morris, song leader. Under the leadership of Mrs. Cathern Hanks and Mrs. Jessie Diffie, sponsors, the girls held meetings on Fridays at 3:45 twice a month in room 423.

Students Discover Values In Teaching Profession

"Hurry up or we will be late to the meeting! You can go to your locker later." This familiar cry echoes throughout the halls by members who are rushing to a meeting of the George Pearson Future Teachers of America Club. Assembling every alternate Tuesday in room 208, members are held together by the common interest of learning more about the teaching profession.

The officers—Peggy Creech, president; Sondra Wattenbarger, vice-president; Susan Robinson, secretary; Donald Oliver, treasurer; Virginia Flanery, corresponding secretary; and Harold Sorrells, parliamentarian—received valuable help from the sponsor, Mr. Paul McCloud, in planning a fruitful and busy year for the club.

Last fall the group attended the state teachers' convention at Oklahoma City. T.U. Day on March 1 held new experiences for the future teachers. F.T.A.'ers went to the annual F.T.A. convention, which was held at Oklahoma College for Women in Chickasha.

A club picnic ended the year's activities.

Girls' Choruses Strive To Enrich Tone Qualities

The two girls' choruses at Central under the direction of Mr. Rex Teague met during fourth and fifth hours. Each class was made up of about thirty girls who obtained membership by audition with the vocal music instructor.

Both classes concentrated on learning vowel formations and general vocal technique. Fundamental aspects of theory were included as they strived to extend their ranges and enrich tone qualities. Each girl was required to participate in one or more smaller vocal groups to further her knowledge in music. To help these smaller groups, Mr. Teague gave training in proper balance and blend.

Assemblies were an important part of their year. They worked hard in preparing to sing The Nativity with other vocal groups in the Christmas assembly and to present a special number for a sophomore variety assembly. They gave several programs at the local junior high schools which send ninth graders to Central. In April the classes combined for the spring festival.

Beginning Choral Groups Train for Advanced Work

In November Mr. Teague and the fourth hour chorus went to Stillwater by bus. They participated with other choruses in the state in a festival. The girls rehearsed in the morning and afternoon. Then they presented a program that evening in the field house at Oklahoma A&M.

Social events were a welcome part of the class curriculum this year. The classes held separate parties and picnics. Then in the spring the two combined to hold a skating party.

Officers were elected for each class. Officiating at meeting and during class discussions in the fourth hour were Joyce Bruce, president; Margaret Bergdorf, vice-president; Sharon Foster, secretary; and Joyce Singleton, treasurer. The fifth hour officers were Beth Conrad, president; Carolyn Rhodes, vice-president; and DeeArlene McDaniel, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the girls' choruses was to prepare the members for the two advanced choral groups at Central, the Opera Club and the A Cappella Choir. Many who have benefited by their year will be members of the advanced groups next year.

Carolyn Rhodes, Beth Conrad, and Dee Arlene McDaniel, officers of the fifth hour Girls' Chorus, rehearse a song before class begins.

A Cappella Presents Easter Music on Television

A Cappella Choir under the direction of Mr. Rex Teague, new instructor of vocal music, made its debut on television when it presented a program of Easter music.

The year began as Mr. Teague and the choir members became acquainted. All business matters were handled by the officers, who were selected for temporary duty last spring and who were elected to permanent office in September. They were Jim Scott, president; Charles Helscel, vice-president; Betty Lou Parker, secretary; Tom Shannon, treasurer; and Sandra Moore and Jean Wilkins, robe custodians.

The choir began working in earnest by the middle of October to prepare for a trip to Stillwater to participate in the fifteenth annual Thanksgiving Music Festival held at Oklahoma A. and M. college. The month of December included for the singing group not only a part in the traditional, The Nativity, but also a part in the all-city performance of The Messiah. After competing with auditioning students from all five of the city high schools, one A Cappella member, Sandra Moore, was given a solo in The Messiah. December also included a Christmas caroling party.

The next month brought a social event when A Cappella Choir and Opera Club, advanced vocal groups, shared thrills and spills at a roller skating rink. During the winter and early spring the choir sang in assemblies at Central and at several of the junior high schools.

Weeks of practice culminated in performing at the spring music festival. To conclude the year the choir sang at the vesper service during Commencement Week.

Opera Club Produces Herbert's 'Babes in Toyland'

The operetta, Babes in Toyland by Victor Herbert, was the major production given by the Opera Club. The exceptionally well-chosen cast included Danny Conner, Marcia Hyman, Dale Lewis, Joyce Schlichting, Susan Watson, and James Webb playing the lead parts. The beautiful setting and the tuneful music made the operetta a delight to the eye and the ear.

At Thanksgiving and again at Christmas time the Opera Club members were heard on the radio as they gave a musical broadcast to the listening audience. Also at Christmas they played an important part in the presentation of Handel's The Messiah, given by all Tulsa high schools at Edison High School.

The group presented other music throughout the year, including a program at the Rotary Club, an exchange assembly with Booker T. Washington High School, assemblies at junior high schools, and The Nativity assembly at Central. The vocalists entertained at the Southern Association of Student Councils convention during the talent show. Soloists and small ensembles sang at various civic clubs throughout the city. The spring concert, including Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker Suite, was presented on April 26, and it was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

To become a member of Opera Club a student had to pass a vocal audition and to enroll in a daily second hour class in room 426 under the direction of Mr. Rex Teague. To care for any business that came up, Bruce Freeman served as president; assisted by James Webb, vice-president; Maxine Kluck, secretary; Dale Lewis, treasurer; and Melissa Houston and Joe Mills, social chairmen.

Band Places Emphasis On Beauty and Performance

David Overley gives some helpful advice to Ray Raulston, Gordon Gambill, and Jon Abmeyer, who are working to perfect their French horn playing.

Choosing the band queen, Nancy Baldwin, and her attendants, Nancy Withers and Patsy Jenni, is just one of the fond memories of the Central Band.

The group met during the sixth period under the direction of Mr. Don Linde. Tryouts for first chairs were held before the close of the first semester. As a result 105 students made up the marching band, and 86 the concert group.

The marching band members, who were excited when parade time came along, participated in the state fair, the Christmas, and the Veterans' Day parades. In June they will march with the parade celebrating Oklahoma's semi-centennial. During football season they played for games and presented formations on the field. A pep band, a volunteer group from the large organization, furnished appropriate music for home basketball games.

To obtain money for new uniforms, the band sold tickets for the Loyalty Night football game. Half of the sales went for uniforms. The members also earned money by presenting two concerts, one in February

Much Practice Needed To Perform Orchestral Music

Lynn Harris, Leah Vogel, and Jon Kepler look over the musical score of "Procession of the Grail" from "Parsifal" by Richard Wagner.

The Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Don Linde, continued to be one of Central's busiest organizations. The cabinet — Leah Vogel, president; Lynn Harris, vice-president; and Jon Kepler, secretary and treasurer—was elected during the second week of school by the fifty-six members of the organization. Ruth Mary Johnson, senior; Jan Fleming, junior; and Carlene Hotz, sophomore; served their respective classes as counselors appointed by members of the cabinet.

Although the Orchestra rehearsed in room 237 during fourth period, they spent many hours before and after school practicing for concerts and various programs. Among these were The Lute Song, Pygmalion, Babes in Toyland, Roomful of Roses, and the Daze.

In December some of the Orchestra members participated in playing for The Messiah.

A string ensemble played for church dinners, a tea for the American Association of University Women, and a banquet for the Southern Association of Student Councils convention at Southern Hills.

John Watkins, Betti Kramer, and Cynthia Sellers, playing the flutes; and Louise Moon and Ruth Mary Johnson, playing the oboes; do some woodshedding on Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," before presenting the number during the orchestra concert in general assembly the last week in March.

Twelve members of the organization went to the all-state orchestra convention held at the University of Oklahoma, February 28 to March 2.

In addition to their annual spring concert presented in general assembly, the Orchestra gave two evening concerts, one in mid-winter and one in the spring.

Occasionally throughout the year some of the members of the Tulsa Philharmonic spoke to the organization. The University of Arkansas string trio gave a concert, too.

Even though the Orchestra worked hard to keep pace with the schedule of events, its members found time to have fun at cast parties and the annual spring picnic.

Braves Start Football Schedule With New Coaches

To begin their first season under Head Coach Emmett Nolan and his assistants, Tommy Joe Hudspeth and John Payne, the Braves played in the Round Robin at Skelly Stadium. The boys won over the Webster Warriors 0 to 0, in a decision made on the basis of first downs. In the second part of the all-city game, the Braves lost to the Rogers Ropers by a score of 32 to 0.

Beginning their regular season, the Big Red played the Bartlesville Wildcats. Even though the Braves met the Wildcats with a greatly improved ball club, they could not cope with the speed of the Bartlesville boys. However on defense the local boys were as polished as ever with such standouts as Wilfred Bales, right tackle; Harvey Singer, left guard; and John Shackelford, end.

Cross Country Runners Earn Top Honors at Opener

Cross country team started the year off right by taking top honors at the Oklahoma Baptist University meet with 26 points. Tom Sellers and Bill Dissly, returning lettermen, tied for first place. Earnest Frye took sixth place, and Steve Mendoza and Jerry Webb won seventh and tenth places.

In cross country events low score wins. On October 24 at the city meet the distance runners for the Braves clipped off top honors again, placing first with 29 points.

Running briskly, James Caldwell, Jim Welch, Bill Dissly, Eldon Pittser, and Steve Mendoza warm up for a coming meet.

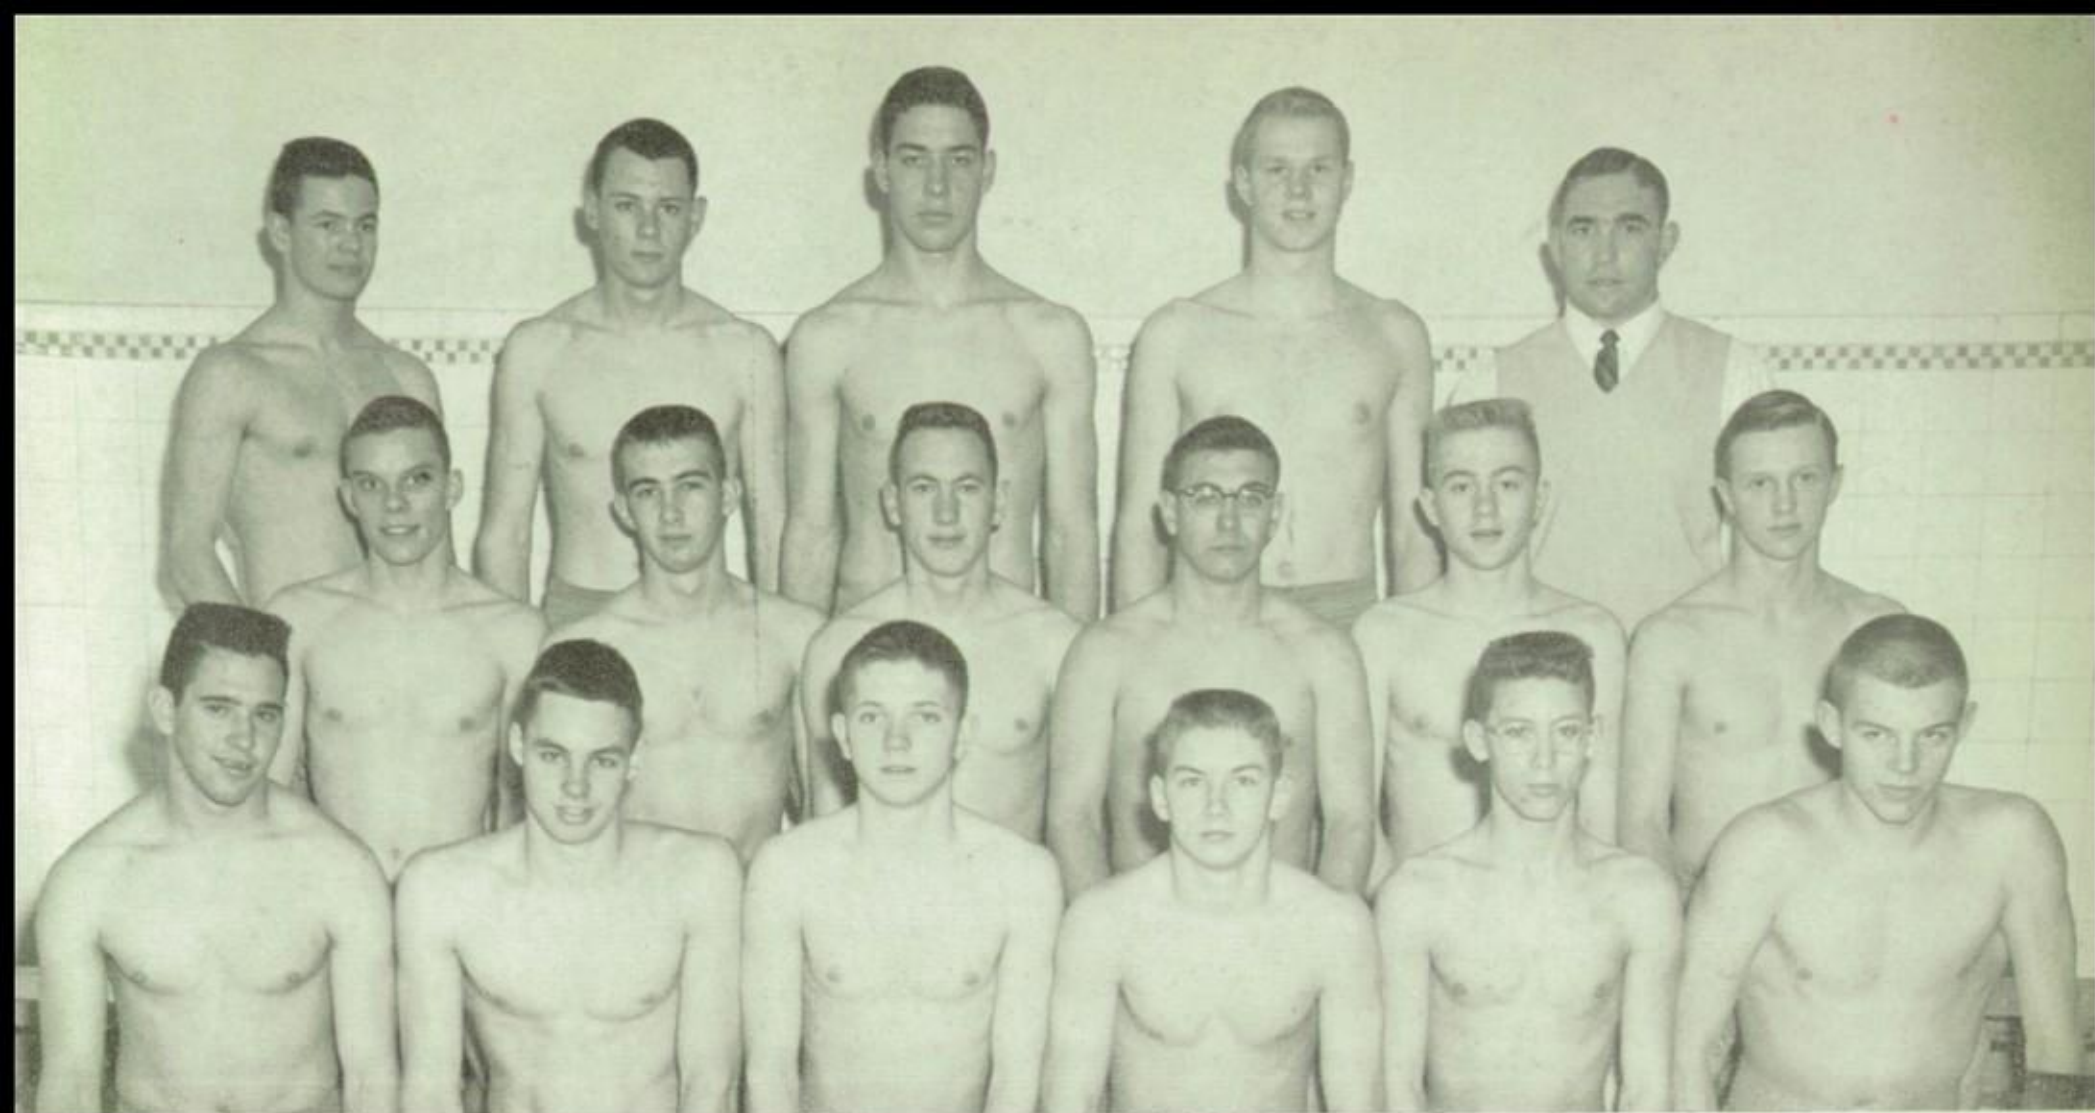

After the city contest the thinclads held second place in the next four meets. The team suffered a loss when letterman Tom Sellers became ill and had to be dropped from the squad.

Under the tutelage of Coach William C. Lantz lettermen for the 1956 season were James Caldwell, Bill Dissly, Ernie Frye, Steve Mendoza, Eldon Pittser, Tom Sellers, Jerry Webb, and Jim Welch. All except Dissly and Sellers will return for next year.

Swim Team Captures City and State Championships

The swimming team, coached by Mr. John Payne, emerged city and state champions at the close of the season. Competing in eleven meets, they won nine and lost two, bowing only to Coffeyville, Kansas, twice.

Six records were broken—Hugh Barrett, 40-yard freestyle; Leon Whitehead, 200-yard freestyle; George Cathey, 100-yard freestyle; Hal Williams, Sam Bradshaw, Tom Bailey, and Lewis Reynolds in the 200-yard medley relay; George Cathey, Jim Conner, Leon Whitehead, and Hugh Barrett in the 160-yard freestyle relay; and Jerry Bicknell with 196 points in diving.

At the state meet the Central 200-yard medley relay team beat the Junior National AAU record of 1:56.8 by 2.4 seconds. Winning All-American awards were Cathey, Conner, Whitehead, and Barrett. Nominated for All-American was the 200-yard medley relay combination of Bailey, Bradshaw, Reynolds, and Williams. Besides those named Jerry Bicknell and Mike Ives were also state champions.

The lettermen included not only those already listed, but also the following boys: Phil Arnett, Bill Barry, Jon Ferris, Warren Kendall, Mike Loy, Eddie Lusk, and David Mays.

Spirited Cagers Cop Regional Basketball Crown

A page from Esquire came to life in vivid colors during the faculty-varsity basketball game last fall. As well-known teachers ran onto the court, peals of laughter greeted them. The fashionable men were dressed in bermuda shorts and socks. The game proved hilarious entertainment for the students packed into the gym.

The regular season opened with two games in Arkansas. The first competition proved too much for the Braves as the Fayetteville quintet took an early lead to down the local boys.

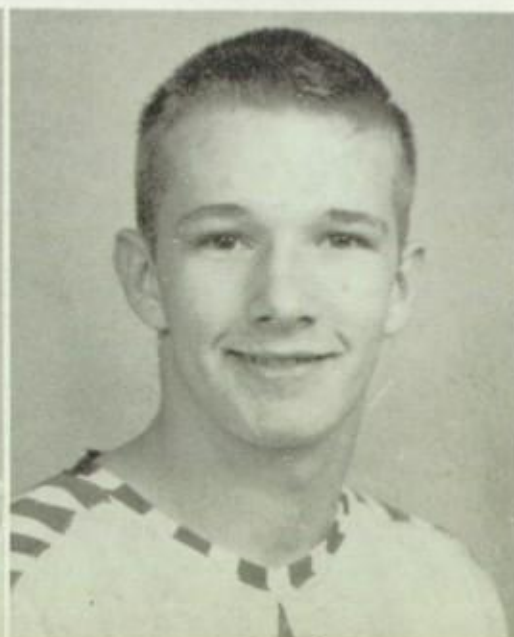

The top scorers in the game were Tommy MacKenna with 12 points, Ray Reins with 10 points, and Bobby Blosch with 10 points. The boys in red led all the way as they stomped Springdale in their second Arkansas game. Ray Reins captured the scoring honors with 18 points.

Making use of a stingy defense and a great second half comeback, the Ropers won the annual Will Rogers Invitational Basketball Tournament by defeating the Braves 24-21. The game was hard fought, and the outcome was in doubt until the final few seconds of the game. Leading at halftime 16-14, the tall Red Men gave the Ropers a rough first half.

When the roundballers invaded Okmulgee, they downed the Bulldogs 43-36. Sparking the Braves were Ray Reins and Bobby Blosch with 17 and 10 points, respectively. Relying on the long shots of Tom Eppler, Jimmy Self, Doy Cole, and Tommy MacKenna, the team went wild, hitting from every place on the court in an all-out rally to defeat the Bulldogs.

the Braves. This game was the boys seventh victory in nine starts.

Booker T. Washington's Hornets rallied late in the fourth quarter to edge the Central roundballers 52-49. It was a close battle all the way. The Braves pulled away in the fourth quarter, only to lose control when the two tall starters, Ray Reins and Terry Connor, fouled out.

The Muskogee Roughers blasted the local boys to the tune of 37-24. Bobby Bloch walked off with the Central scoring honors with 10 points. In the free-throw department the boys in red stepped into the limelight with seven attempts and six baskets.

Winning three straight games and the regional crown, the Braves represented Tulsa in the state athletic association playoffs at Oklahoma City. The team members slept on a victory over Edison 59-33, only to wake up to a dream come true as they knocked off the Webster Warriors, 61-52, in the net-sizzling first half of the regional double-header. Central gave the Muskogee boys a 39-34 defeat to think about, and the Braves carried Coach Clarence Ehlers from the floor

Grapplers Match Skill Against Ten Adversaries

The 1956-57 wrestling team under the direction of the head coach, Mr. George Dorsch, and his assistant, Mr. Tommy Joe Hudspeth, won six out of nine matches and fought one team to a tie. To start off the season with a victory, the Braves were triumphant over Edison in an exciting battle in which Dick Walker and Harvey Singer scored pins; and Regan Wright, C. R. Auxier, Jim Henry, Monty Stricker, Mark Kelley, Les Frick, and Bill Knowles won by decision.

The Braves captured a victory at Midwest City when wrestlers Gary Taylor, Dick Walker, Regan Wright, Don Davidson, Jim Henry, Monty Stricker, Mike Little, Les Frick, Bill Knowles, and Harvey Singer won their matches.

At the Bristow Invitational Meet the wrestlers gained second place, and team members captured three championships. Champions were Harvey Singer, Bill Knowles, and Don Davidson. Winning their matches, Walter White, Dick Walker, Regan Wright, Don Davidson, Jim Henry, Monty Stricker, Bill Knowles, and Harvey Singer, led the Braves to a high regional standing.

The annual bout with Webster found the undefeated Braves skilled matmen. Don Davidson and Mike Little scored pins; and Dick Walker, Monty Stricker, Les Frick, and Bill Knowles won by decision.

Dick Walker, Don Davidson, Jim Henry, Monty Stricker, and Bill Knowles drove Central to a victory against Ponca City. The score, 17-16, was proof of a hard battle in which Les Frick tied his opponent.

In their fifth straight victory of the season the Braves defeated Sapulpa by a 30 to 5 margin. Don Davidson and Bill Knowles showed themselves to be outstanding matmen by pinning their adversaries, while Walter White, Regan Wright, Jim Henry, Mike Little, Les Frick, and Joe Eaton won by decision, and Harvey Singer fought his opponent to a draw.

The Braves met the Rogers Ropers at the Rogers gym; and although Dick Walker, Mike Shearer, Bill Knowles, and Harvey Singer won their matches, the Braves were defeated.

In an exciting contest at Stillwater, the wrestlers tied the match by defeating five opponents, one by a pin. Dick Walker, Mike Shearer, Les Frick, and Bill Knowles won

A final engagement with Rogers saw the Braves go down against the Roper matmen who scored a 23 to 13 victory.

The regional meet gave the Braves a chance to prove their mettle. Harvey Singer and Bill Knowles came home with the titles of individual champions. Consolation matches were captured by Don Davidson and Les Frick, who helped the Braves stack up a score of 73 points. At the state tournament at Blackwell, the team won ninth place.

Braves End Season With Twelve Wins and Two Losses

Central's defending state champion baseball team opened its 1956 season by defeating the Roughers at Muskogee on March 13 by a score of 11-1.

Seven lettermen—Don Davis, Dean Davis, John Fluke, Bob Hamilton, Bill Tiederman, Carl Washburn, and Harold Whitenack—returned from the championship squad. Besides these veteran hardballers, others who lettered were Amada Casillas, Jack Wyatt, John Evans, Harry Arnold, Jim Self, Bill Knowles, and Kenneth Dell. The team was coached by Mr. Clyde Charvoz.

The year's schedule for the Braves included fourteen games, two with each conference school. The season ended with the Braves winning twelve and losing two games.

In the Class A regional baseball tournament, held at Newblock Park on May 3-5, Central was eliminated by Webster 0-1.

Golfers Show Skill On Fairways To Win Matches

Supplying an eventful part of the 1956 athletic season was the golf team under the direction of Coach George Dorsch. The Braves displayed their skill on the links and met their competition with determination.

Playing their first match with the Sapulpa Chieftains, they went down to defeat $5\frac{1}{2}$ - $7\frac{1}{2}$. Then the team members tied with Okmulgee $6\frac{1}{2}$ - $6\frac{1}{2}$. Bouncing into the win column, the golfers beat Webster 11-2 and Bristow 7-6.

The next week the Bartlesville Wildcats tripped them 6-7, but the score was reversed when the Braves outpointed the Rogers Ropers 7-6.

In quick succession the Big Red defenders won from Webster 12-1 and from Sapulpa $9\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$. Then Okmulgee came up with a $2\frac{1}{2}$ - $10\frac{1}{2}$ victory. The spunky Brave golfers won their final matches against Bristow and Bartlesville, both with scores of 7-6.

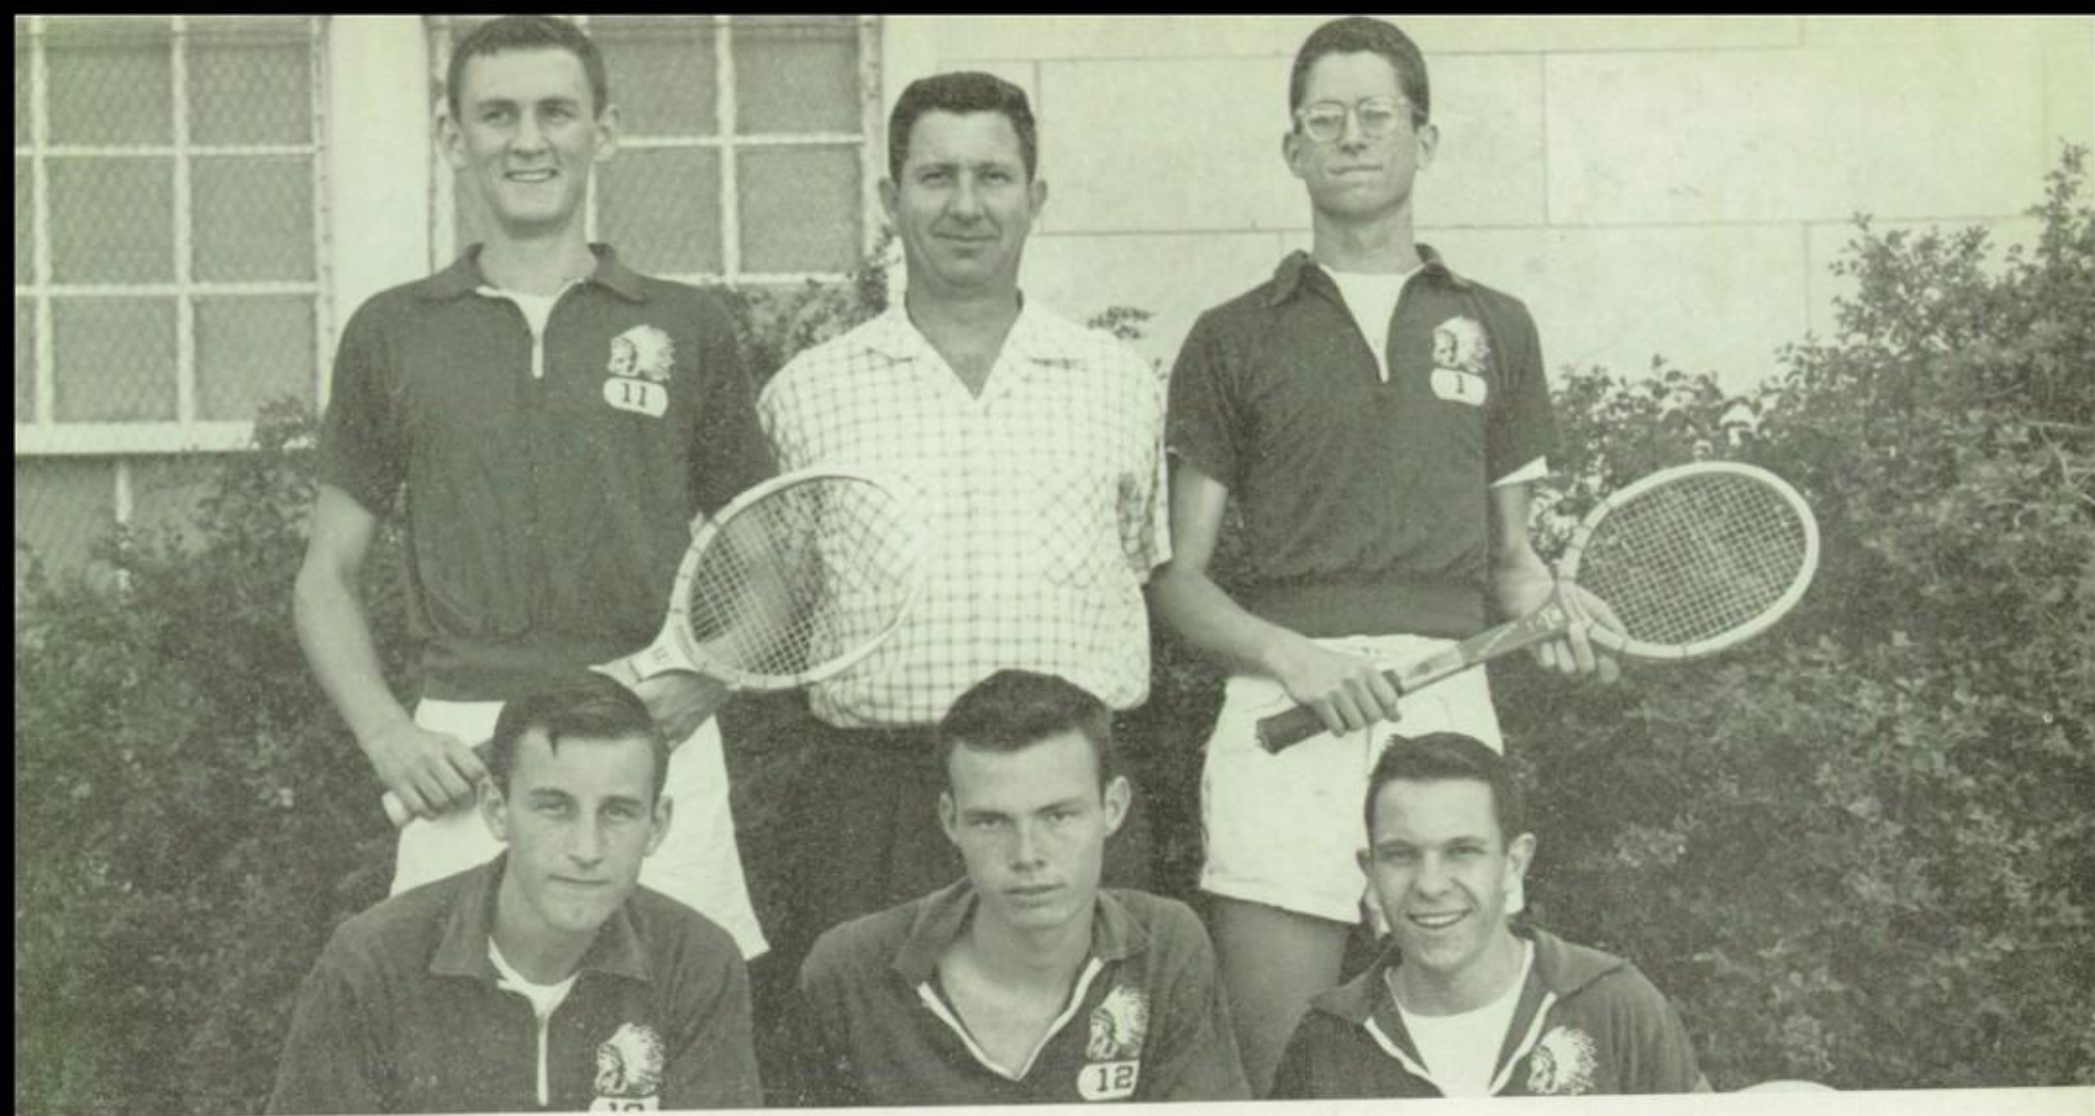

At the tournaments the sand-diggers placed third in the conference and fifth in the state. Returning lettermen for the 1957 squad were Elvill Beck and Henry Gourd.

Henry Gourd demonstrates the correct way to hold a club and proper stance which has won many matches for him.

Tennis Squad Boasts of Season With Six Victories

Opening the 1956 tennis season, the Central team went into action in a match against Muskogee. Some fine tennis was played, and the Braves came out victorious 4-2.

Winning matches soon became a habit with them. In the second encounter with the Roughers, the local boys won again 8-1. Meeting Rogers in a dual match, the squad was ready for anything; and in fine form they gained the big end of the score 8-1.

Only once did the team members suffer a loss which came when a group from Winfield, Kansas, edged them 4-5. Next on the schedule were sets with Bartlesville, when the Braves eked out a win 5-4.

Then the downtown boys defeated the Ropers from the eastside school 8-1. In another match with Bartlesville, the racket wielders came up with a win 7-2.

Coached by Mr. Clarence Ehlers, the lettermen—Kent Rogart, John Brice, Bud Hamilton, Tom Russell, Robert Shaver, and P. K. Williams—displayed brilliant form to the end of the season with six victories.

Track Team Engages In Full Calendar of Events

The track team was under a new coach during the 1956 season. Mr. Kenneth Bays was head man in the "cinder" department.

The team opened its schedule with an electrifying 71½-46½ victory over the Will Rogers Ropers. The Braves set three meet records at this event.

At the Central State track and field meet at Edmond the boys took top honors with 46.7 points. Six records were rewritten as the Braves retained their regional track and field championships. In the state contest the boys tied for third place with Rogers and Lawton.

Last year was the first time that a Central track team had ever competed with one from Booker T. Washington. The Braves defeated the Hornets by a score of 89-29.

Only four lettermen came back from the preceding year. They were Tom Baxter, Kennie Cotton, James Greene, and John Shackleford. Besides those four, members of the track team who lettered last season were Don Bicknell, Harold Brand, George Bristow, Richard Cochran, Bill Dissly, Darryl Edelman, Paul Edwards, Paul Hancock, Ronnie Mullins, Dwayne Pollard, Ralph Pollard, Tom Sellers, and Jim Winsworth.

Underclassmen who were eligible for the 1957 track season included Tom Sellers, Bill Dissly, Tom Baxter, Kennie Cotton, Dwayne Pollard, Harold Brand, George Bristow, Jerry Webb, Ronnie Mullins, James Greene, and John Shackleford.

To a swell kid
lots of luck

Babs Thurman

To a good kid (sometimes) with excellent behavior never good luck
for the future
Mocher

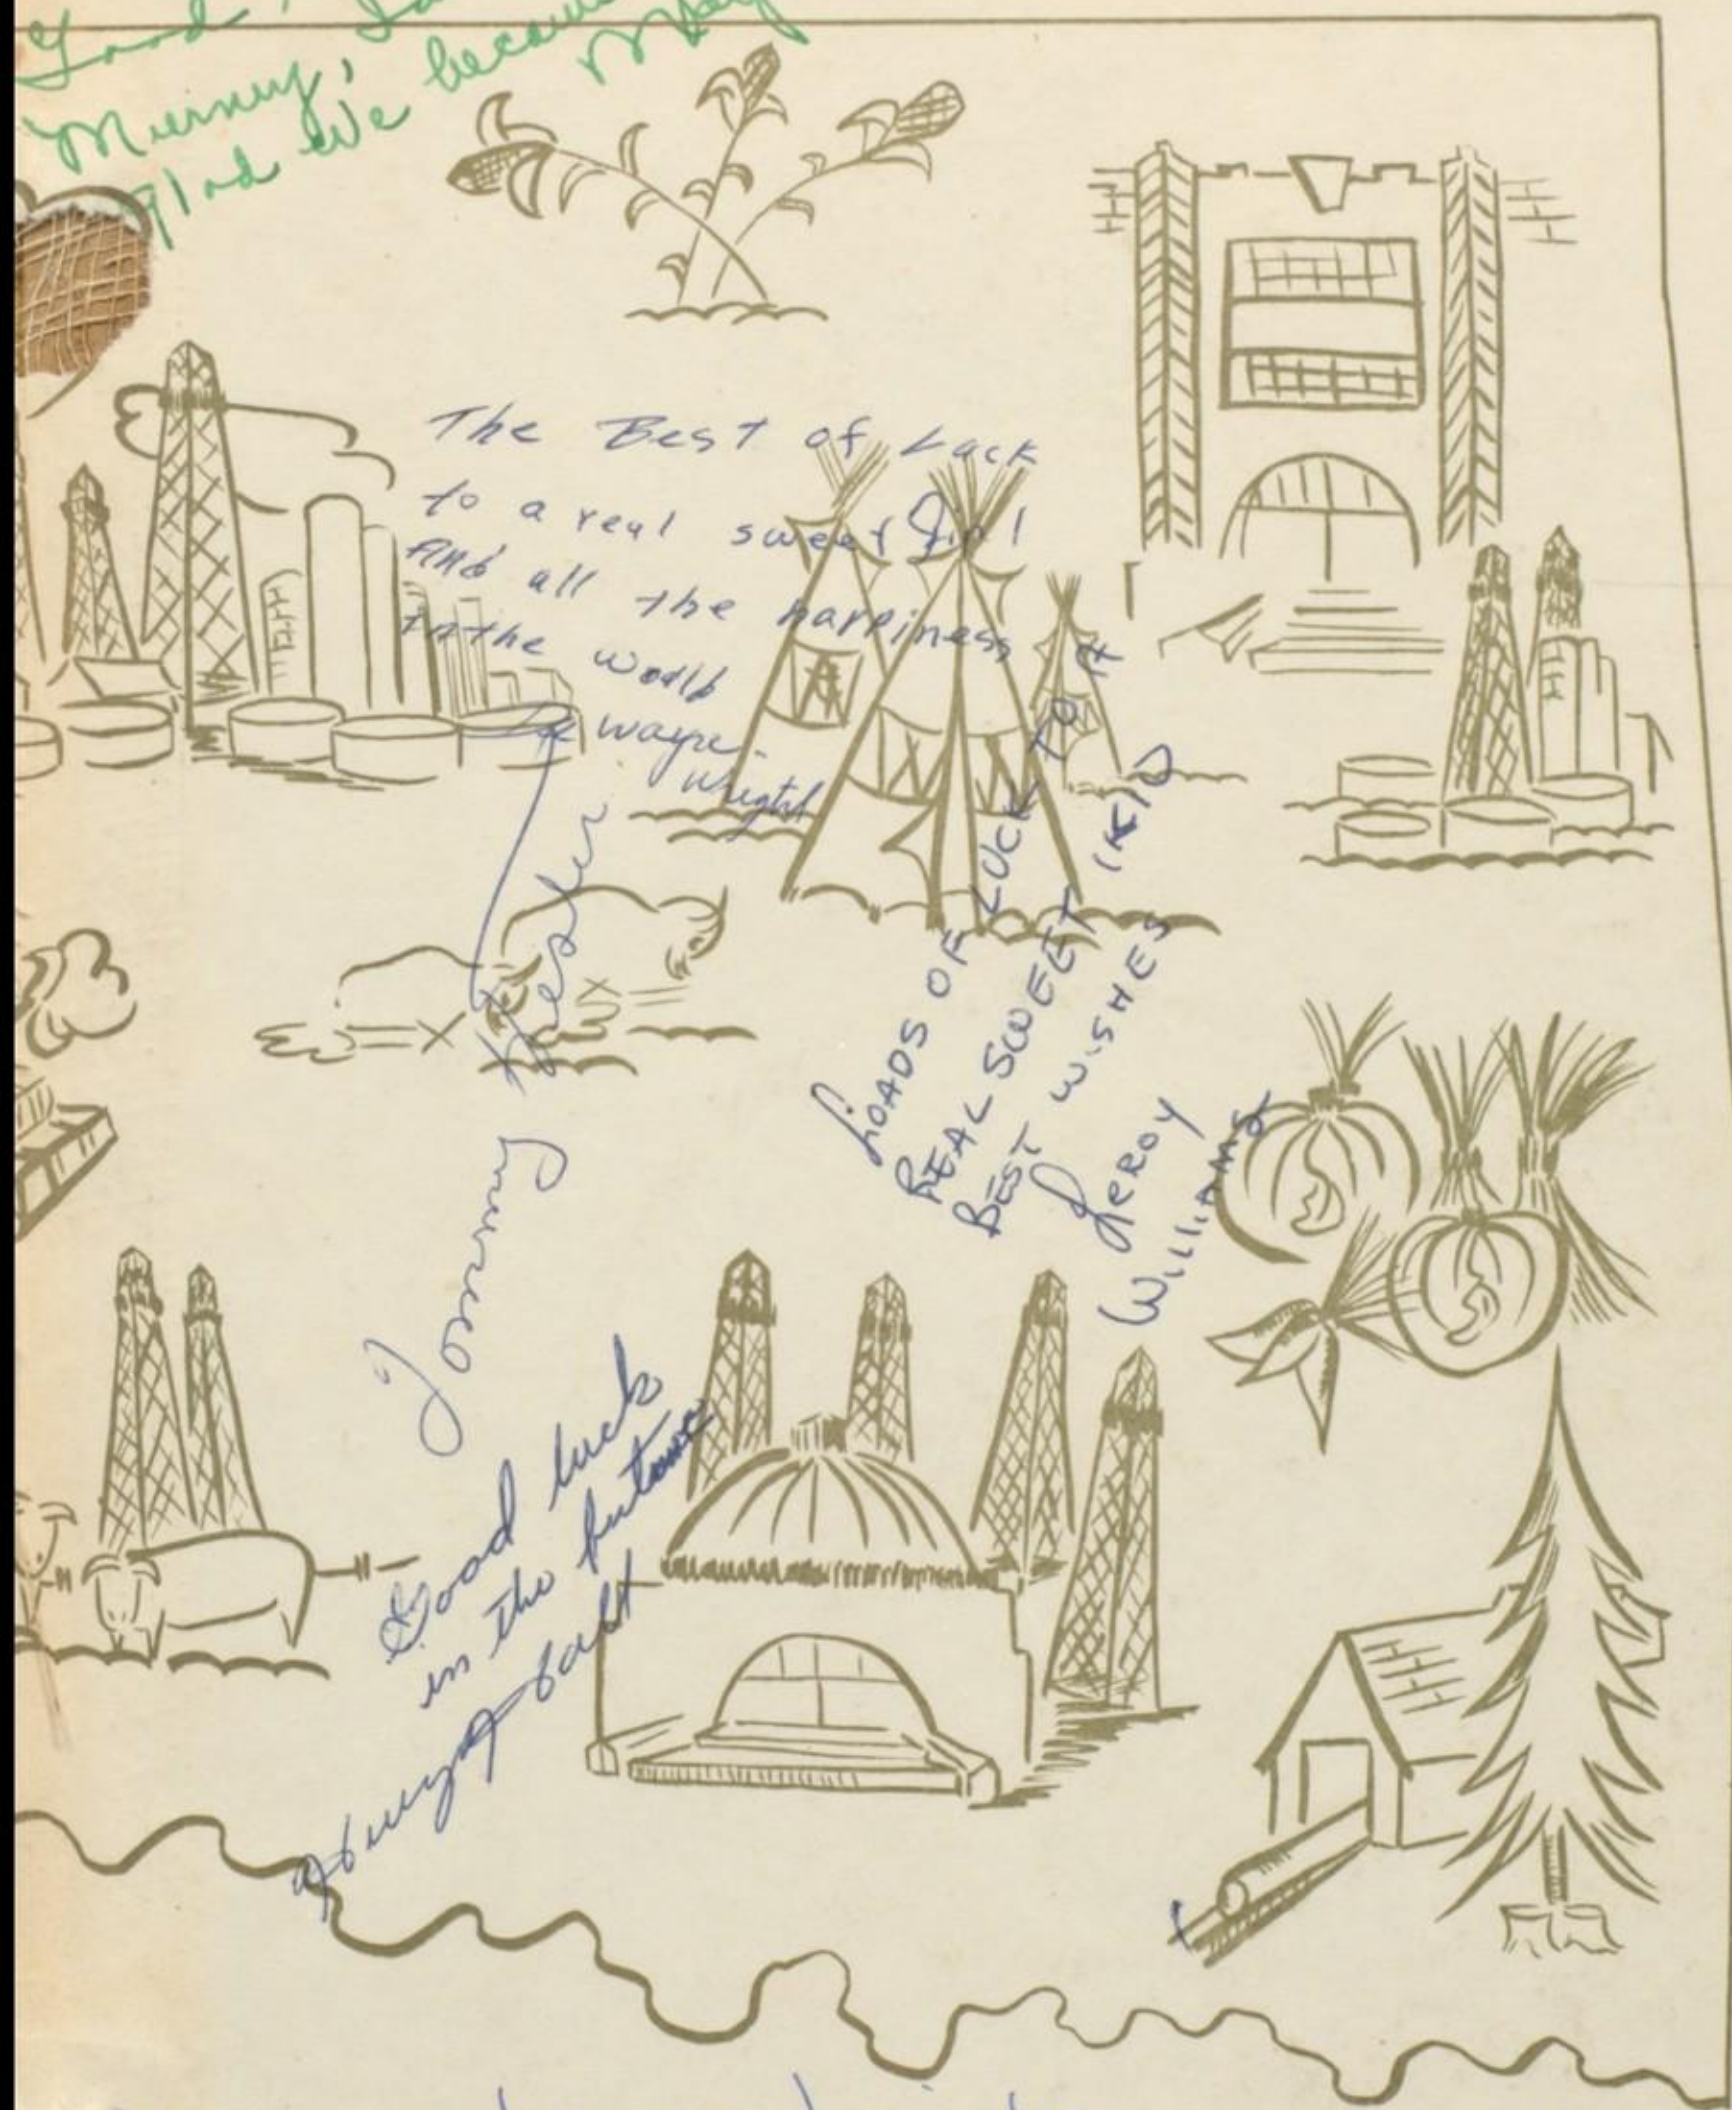

To a real nice gal
and a good friend
lots of luck
Janet
Dahl

To a beautiful girl who is wonderful at everything you learn.
I wish you the best of luck.
Alma Allstock

To a girl who is so smart and you might learn something. And I wish you good luck in everything.

Good luck
 winning, Jan
 glad we became friends!
 Mayne

to a real sweet girl who I have enjoyed spending this past year with. We have had some fun in Mayne's together!
 lots of luck always
